All About Wheat
Something About Goats
Rye and Corn
Uncle Sam's Experiment
—By Arthur Brisbane—

CHICAGO, ILL., MARCH 12 —The government worries about prohibition, about what England and Japan will do in the way of permitting us to build ships and about some other things.

It ought to worry about WHEAT.

It is no longer a question of pleasing the farmer, or holding farm votes for the Republicans. It is a question affecting the business of the United States, interests of all the business men, the welfare of all the workers.

Facts and figures follow from reliable sources. Government and business men are invited to consider them and predict the final result of the government's attempt to corner wheat, buying it for more than the world's market price and storing it.

This country, last week, exported 880,000 bushels of wheat. Canada last week exported 4,700,000 bushels.

Canadians have turned their wheat into cash. Our government takes the farmer's wheat and turns it into the grain elevators to be stored, to increase the unsold "carry over."

The government fears that a serious slump in wheat prices might have a bad effect on general business.

More important is the possibility that artificially holding up wheat prices may in the end produce disaster.

If the government continues to buy at prices that make wheat exportation impossible, July 1, with the crop of winter wheat ready for storage, will find no empty elevators to hold it.

The grain elevators in the United States are practically full now.

Nobody will buy wheat from the farmers in July when he has no place to store the wheat, and those that are really pessimistic say that when July comes it won't be a question of price, but a question of wheat being UNSALABLE.

May wheat sold in Chicago today at a price fractionally above $1 a bushel, which controls the world's wheat markets.

Between Chicago and Liverpool, there is a transportation charge of from 15 to 18 cents a bushel.

The government holding back American wheat is turning over the wheat markets of the world to the Argentine, Russia and Canada.

Unless the government can get rid of the wheat it is storing, and others are storing, what will be done with the July crop, where will it be stored, how will it be sold?

Some men that understand grain, invited to join the grain boards, declined. They knew what would happen.

In Minneapolis, the government buys wheat from farm cooperatives for $1.25 a bushel, against a normal price of $1.01. In Kansas City the government is paying $1.15 a bushel, normal price $1.00.

United States elevators now hold one hundred and fifty-five million bushels of wheat, biggest storage in history.

Everybody knows that the government and the grain board have a sincere desire to help the farmer and protect business generally.

But serious mistakes have been made with the generous desire to help.

A few months before the government began to buy wheat at artificial prices May wheat was selling at $1.60 a bushel. The price now is $1.10 F. O. B. Chicago.

Corn has suffered 10 cents a bushel for lack of elevator storage.

Some men, looking ahead, are building new elevators as fast as they can, certain that the government will be compelled to rent or buy them to take care of the July crop.

One Chicagoan said today: "I am getting rid of my wheat, emptying my elevators to rent them to the government. I have 800,000 bushels of government wheat stored in one of my elevators, and I know it is going to stay there indefinitely. The government pays me 15 cents a bushel for storage per year. $120,000 a year rent, for my elevator. That suits me."

The banker who suddenly found himself in the milk business when he refused to extend credit will sympathize with Uncle Sam, who finds himself suddenly in all kinds of business.

Millions have been advanced on co-operative creameries, on beans or fruits.

According to a circular of the National City Bank of New York, the government has advanced $8,000,000 on goats. It

MAYOR CALLS PARLEY IN STRIKE

$10,000,000 of Business Involved in the Walkout of 2500 Garment Workers

Soon after 2500 garment workers went on strike today, throwing 4000 out of work and causing dispatch of police reserves to the district, Mayor Curley called on leaders of both sides to meet at his office to discuss a settlement of the disputes involving a $10,000,000 item in the industry.

The men and women strikers are the main element in the garment trades and are employed by a number of smaller shops and the organization of Lyndhurst.

Isidore Colpack, president of the Associated Industry, said work at a standstill in the shops would continue to be manufactured. He announced that he and other employers would attend the mayor's parley.

The manufacturers' association also invited the union leaders to meet them on Saturday to attempt a settlement. Colpack said the employers offered a 42-hour week and wages within 10 per cent of their employes' figures.

The strikers are members of the International Ladies' Garment Workers union which had refused to join the strike of the radical Needle Trades Union, a much smaller organization, which has been in progress for several weeks.

Mayor Curley sent his letters by special messenger to B. Rudy, Samuel Vernon, Seymour Raiwitz, secretaries; David Dubinsky of the union; Louis Schultz, president of the New England Cloak and Suit Manufacturers Assn.; Joseph Rei-

Rum Pays Ontario 9 Millions

Toronto, March 13 (AP)—With sales totaling $55,360,369, the Ontario Liquor Control Commission has reported to the Legislature a profits for 1929 of $9,661,448.

Commenting on the control system, the report said:

"Evils resulting from the abuse of liquor have ever been present. The sin of drunkenness still is with us and probably will remain with the host of other sins."

The commission declared the day of the large bootlegger was ended.

Sir Henry Drayton, chairman of the commission, said under the new regulations a person buying beyond his means, or for improper purposes, may be denied the privilege of purchasing, thereby preventing a closer scrutiny on his purchases.

STAGG PLEADS FOR DRY LAW

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Alonzo Stagg, whose big Maroon elevens of Chicago University have written many a chapter of football history, before the House judiciary committee today urged retention of the Eighteenth Amendment, saying it was his observation that the youth of the nation was better off under prohibition than it had been before.

Stagg took the stand after a group of women, who had testified previously in support of the dry law, had been cross-examined and Carlton Sherwood, executive secretary of the Citizens' Committee of One Thousand, had endorsed prohibition. Sherwood, who is from New York city, had said the antis had become "fanatics."

The white-haired athletic director from Chicago said he was interested in young people, particularly boys. He has been coach at Chicago for 38 years.

FIRE DESTROYS NO. WEYMOUTH BEACH HOTEL

Two Cottages Burned, Others Are in Danger as the Flames Spread; Total Loss $50,000

Fire today destroyed the Fort Point Hotel and two new summer cottages at North Weymouth and for an hour threatened to wipe out the beach section of Weymouth.

The total loss was estimated at $50,000.

Swept by a stiff wind the flames damaged the summer home of Capt. Herbert W. Goodwin of the Boston police department.

The hotel was owned by W. J. Sullivan of Weymouth.

The possibility that tramps set fire, was being considered. Fire Department officials were informed that tramps had been seen entering the hotel, which was to have been reopened today, and it is believed that their careless use of cigarets started the blaze.

The burned cottages were owned by Herbert S. Sawyer of Weymouth.

Doheny is charged with giving the money to Fall to influence the then Secretary of stihinterior to award a lease to the Elk Hills naval oil reserve to Doheny's company.

TRAIL $100,000 BANK ROLL OF EX-RAIDER AT PENSION PROBE

Allen H. Wood, Jr., son-in-law of Mrs. Oliver B. Garrett, was a "figurehead" president of Pine Grove Dairy Farm Co. in an incorporation undertaken to protect Mrs. Garrett's personal holdings against possible suit.

That, with other startling evidence, was recorded today at the public hearing of the Attorney-General's investigation into various phases of the life, public and otherwise, of Oliver B. Garrett, pensioned Boston patrolman and former leader of the liquor squad.

The probe, conducted before the Legislature, continued [illegible] two definitely [illegible] impeachment, linking of the Garrett $50,000 to $100,000 bank deposit with the farm at Hingham, and about a year and [illegible] physical condition, as a result of the accident in 1927 on which he based his successful claim for pension.

Wood admitted that although he was supposed to be president of the dissolving charter of about [illegible] incorporated Lucy he never in his own [illegible] He admitted further that he never attended any corporation meeting and never had any financial interest in the farm. [illegible] cial interest in the farm.

NEVER SAW ANY BOOK

He never saw any books and his only official act as president was to sign a paper when the farm was sold, he said.

His wife, Mrs. Garrett's daughter, and listed as clerk of the corporation and the holder of one share of stock, testified she never received any stock and never kept any records.

Mrs. Garrett wanted to incorporate the farm to protect her personal holdings in case she was sued, her daughter testified.

Another highlight of the day was the statement by Asst. Atty.-Gen. Damon E. Hall that only one bank account in the names of the Garretts had been discovered as of record prior to 1923.

This was a small one in a Charlestown institution while Garrett was a patrolman at the City Sq. station. He did not become a member of the liquor squad until 1923.

The largest crowd so far attempted to gain admittance to the hearing room at the State House. Garrett himself, attired in a natty gray suit which set off a black and white figured necktie, was an early arrival. Mrs. Garrett did not attend the morning session.

Dr. John Sears McCormack, Garrett's personal physician, was the first witness of the day. He had been sent home from the hearing yesterday to fetch the original records of his treatments of Garrett and today Hall asked him pointblank if some of those he submitted were not carbon copies of the originals.

COPIES ARE ORIGINALS.

This the physician stoutly denied.

Dr. McCormack and Hall clashed frequently and to several leading questions the physician made no answer at all. At other times he spoke in a low tone.

He said Garrett always paid him in cash. He vehemently stated that he had not tampered with his own records when Hall indicated a mark thereon which he thought was an erasure of a cross opposite "Night visit, Aug. 3, 1927."

The records showed Garrett complained constantly of headaches following the Aug. accident on which he based his successful claim for pension.

"RAVING" IN PAIN

On Aug. 13 entry indicated that Garrett was confined to bed following a relapse, that he suffered much pain and that Dr. McCormack had administered a sedative and applied an ice cap.

"Would you be surprised if he was out that day?" Hall asked.

"Yes, sir," replied the physician. "On August 14 Garrett was raving with pain," and on September

CHEAPER CASH FOR BUSINESS

Washington, March 13 (INS)—Business will have an adequate supply of cheap capital available for the reawakening which President Hoover predicts within less than 60 days.

Federal Reserve Board officials today were ready to approve further reductions in the rediscount rates from the present level of 4 per cent at the New York, Boston, Chicago and Kansas City banks, and 4½ per cent at the other institutions.

Members of the board decline to anticipate the possible action of the New York bank directorate, which meets today. It was the opinion that a reduction in the rate of 3½ per cent would be discussed.

The reduction would have a wholesome psychological effect through encouragement to business by holding out the promise of lower commercial rates and paving the way for a reduction at the other banks. It would also protect the London reserve and reduce the likelihood of a large movement of gold to the United States.

Flood Halts U.S. Train in Nova Scotia

Truro, N. S., March 13 (AP)—Nova Scotia today was recovering from one of the severest rain and wind storms in years. All travel to Cape Breton was interrupted by wash-outs, the most serious at Barneys River where a long Canadian National Railway bridge was washed out.

Many passengers from Cape Breton for American points, on the Sydney Express, will be delayed several days for repairs to be made.

Numerous rivers and streams overflowed. Many cellars in Truro were flooded. One family was driven from home.

A 60 mile gale accompanied the heavy rainfall.

MOVES TO OUST M'DONALD

London, March 13 (AP)—Former Premier Baldwin, Conservative leader, opened an attack on the Labor government late today, moving a vote of censure, but took most of the sting out of it by declaring the government in all likelihood would win. He asserted that "eventually the cold fact of unemployment would men the defeat of the McDonald ministry.

Mr. Baldwin moved his vote of censure on the government for its attitude toward safeguarding duties in relations to unemployment.

GARRETT'S DOCTOR UNDERGOES SEARCHING QUIZ ON HIS SICKNESS

DAIRY CORPORATION OFFICERS TESTIFY THEY HAD NOTHING TO DO WITH BUSINESS

Dr. John Seary McCormack, Oliver B. Garrett's personal physician, was the first witness as the Garrett hearing resumed today. The testimony follows:

Dr. McCormack, who was dismissed yesterday to fetch the originals of his notes on Garrett's treatment—although he had brought copies—was besieged with many embarrassing questions flung by the prosecuting assistant attorney-general.

It was disclosed that the physician had been arrested for alleged drunken driving in Weymouth in 1927, but was cleared of the charge.

Garrett was early on hand at the hearing, taking his usual front row seat. Dr. McCormack was called immediately.

GARRETT PAID CASH

Dr. McCormick explained that Garrett was under treatment from September, 1923, until January, 1926, abdominel adhesions. Deep wave massages were given to Garrett almost daily during that time.

Questioned by Atty. Hall:

Q—What charges did you make.

A—I mad eno charges. Mr. Garrett paid cash always.

Dr. McCormack continued his testimony. Atty. Hall, reading from the original notes made by the physician, at times had difficulty in making them out. Dr. McCormack would then lean over his shoulder. He, too, had trouble in reading his own handwriting occasionaly.

Reading from one card, Atty. Hall said:

"March 20, improved."

Turning to the doctor, Hall said: "That's all up to September 20?"

A.—Up until the night of August 2, 1927.

DENIES ERASURE

Addressing the witness, Hall said: "Have you any other notes whatsoever, contemporaneously with your treatment of him on this date—except what I have just read?"

The doctor replied that he "had a note of my visit that night to Hingham."

Q—Is that all you did for him at that time? A.—That's all I have a note of.

From another card, Hall read: "Aug. 3, 27, Charged to Hingham." He then said to the doctor:

"I notice there is a cross against 'night visit' and that has been erased."

Witness replied "No."

"Don't you see that?"

The doctor replied, "No, I don't see any mark."

Dr. McCormack then looked at card again and said to the attorney: "Isn't it a shadow from the other side?"

He added, "It's immaterial, anyway, for I have not attempted to tamper with the records."

TOLD TO KEEP QUIET

Picking up another card, Hall said:

"This was written the day after and reads, 'Told him to keep quiet.'"

Reading from other cards, Hall continued: "Aug. 4, office visit, wounds dressed."

Another card read: August 6, same wounds dressed, improvement. Head, ribs, pain."

Then this question was put to the doctor:

"Your treatments of him on Aug. 4, 5 and 6 were all office visits, were they not? A.—Yes.

Q.—And he was improving? A.—Yes.

Hall picked up another card and read: Aug. 7, '27. Office visit. Strapping changed. Still headache."

Another card read: "Office visits from Aug. 7 to Aug. 12. Improvement except headache and contusion over right eye persists."

Another card read: "Aug. 12, examination by Dr. Buehler at police headquarters."

VISIT TO HINGHAM

Aug. 13, card read: Regular visit to Hingham. Confined to bed. Severe pains, head, especially over right eye. Swelling, tender on pressure. Treatment, sedative. Ice cap. Contusion and—

At this point both the doctor and Hall looked for a moment, but finally the physician said: "moaning."

He added: "And pain."

Q—Would you be surprised to know that he was out on that day? A.—No.

Picking up another card, Atty. Hall read: Aug. 14, 1927. Headache, irritable, very restless.

On a card for Aug. 14, the notations were: Night visit, raving in pain, in semi-conscious condition when I left.

Aug. 15: Same as Aug. 14.

McCormack Declares He Doesn't Know Dr. Wolfson

From the 16th to the 23rd the notes were to the effect that conditions were "about the same."

Aug. 24, improved but headache severe.

Aug. 25 and 26: General improvement but still the headache.

Same for 27, 28, 29 and 30.

HAD PAIN IN JAW

Sept. 2: X-ray by Dr. O'Brien. Clinical diagnosis sustained, two or three days previously in a raid? A. I did not.

Q.—If he did say it, it would be rather inconsistent with his being in bed, wouldn't it?

No answer was made.

Going back to the cards, Hall referred to Sept. 22. "Reported for work. Only for couple of hours. Condition much improved, all symptoms cleared up except headache. Sometimes unbearable.

Q—That is what he told you?

No answer.

Cards for Sept. 23 to 26: Office visits each day.

Q—How do you account for this, doctor? The slips relative to the office visit on Sept. 22, on the face the entry is made in black pencil, while notations on the back are made with purple pencil. You might have had two pencils.

Q—Here's a slip of Aug. 28, with a number of different dates written on the back. Were they not all written at the same time? A.—I could not say. A physician does not always make copious notes every time he sees a patient.

ABOUT DR. WOLFSON

Q.—Aren't some of these notes carbon copies? A.—They certainly are not.

Q.—The next note of any import begins Aug. 22, 1928. Now, you have been treating him in July of 1929?

The doctor replied that he did several having done so.

Q.—Hasn't he (Garrett) been suffering from an inflammation? You did not treat him for Dr. Wolfson. A.—No, I don't know Dr. Wolfson.

Q.—Do you mean that? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you treat him in hospital, after operation by Dr. Wolfson? A.—No, I did not know he was in the hospital.

Q.—Did you refer him to Dr. Wolfson? A.—No, I did not know he was being treated. I was away at the time.

Going back to the cards, Hall referred to Aug. 23 which said: "Brought from fair by stranger."

In reply to a question, the doctor said the stranger was not Mulrenin.

Aug. 24th card: Report of X-Ray by Dr. Record was a fracture. Other conclusions negative.

The report continued: Visited Garrett at cottage at Nantasket, and the patient was shaved.

A.—That's not me. I mean, I didn't shave him. That's the day I brought him home.

Q.—But on July 30, the records show Dr. McCormack visited hospital and took patient home.

The doctor replied: Well, I didn't prescribe for, or treat him.

Q.—Then you knew he was under treatment by Dr. Wolfson? For with a copy of the two accounts in this bank in the name of Lillian L. and Oliver B. Garrett.

"In order that you may identify these accounts as belonging to the parties you are interested in, I would state that account No. 130,204 was opened in 1920, and at that time they lived at 3 Dexter row, Charlestown.

"He was born in Mechanics Falls Me., October 14, 1895. Lillian L. Garrett was born January 6, 1894, at Brooklyn, Hants County, Nova Scotia.

COPY OF ACCOUNT.

"Below we have a listed a copy of each account:

"No. 101,029, May 19, 1917, deposit $2; May 25, 1917, deposit $1; dividends from, October, 1917, to date, $2.06; total, $5.06.

"No. 130,304, July 12, 1920, deposit $5; July 26, deposit $5; August 13, deposit $10; September 15, deposit $20; withdrawn September 24, 1920, $30; October 4, 1920, $5; October 25, 1920, deposit $10; November 20, 1920, deposit $10; December 24, withdrawn, $20; April 6, 1921, withdrawn, $2; May 3, 1921, deposit $12; June 9, deposit $30; June 22, deposit $5.

"Note—Transfer No. 135,180. July 21, 1921, withdrawn $25; July 29, withdrawn $24. Dividends, 1921 to date, 41 cents. Account closed.

After reading the deposits, withdrawals of the Garretts in the Charlestown Five Cent Savings Bank, Hall turned to the crowd and called for Allen H. Wood, Jr., son-in-law of Mrs. Garrett.

WOOD ON THE STAND

Wood stepped to the witness stand. He is a dapper, well-dressed young man, and sat down in a composed manner.

He testified he lived in Mystic Valley parkway, Winchester, and was questioned by Hall.

Q.—Are you in business in Boston? A.—I am.

Q.—For how many years. A.—Every since the war.

Q.—Did you marry the daughter of Mrs. Garrett by her first husband? A.—I did.

Q.—When did you marry her? A.—Eight years ago.

Q.—Where. A.—In Brookline.

Q.—Her name was Mabel Woodside? A.—It was.

Q.—I call your attention to the next page, which states that the first meeting of the corporation was held Oct. 26, 1927, and that the capital stock was 50 shares and that goodwill and services were to represent 48 shares, with an asterisk at the bottom, which states those 48 shares were given for "work done to advertise farm products and laboratory tests," and that the cash in full was for two shares.

The attorney further added that on the second page of the document it was stated that Allen H. Wood, Annie M. Kaine and Hazel W. Wood are directors of the corporation.

Addressing the witness, Hall asked: "Tell us under what circumstances you signed those documents.

PUT NO MONEY IN IT

A—My mother-in-law asked me if I thought it would be advisable to incorporate her holdings on the farm. Q.—Was it as a result of that was a matter for lawyers to decide. She asked me if I would be good enough to be one of the officers in case she incorporated, and I said I would.

Reading from a typewritten document, Attorney Hall said: "Did you say this to Mrs. Garrett: 'I haven't any money to put into it.' And did she reply that she did not want any money, but wanted people in the family to be connected with it?' And did you reply, 'If that's the case, mother, that is O. K.?'"

Q.—Was is as a result of that conversation that you signed the papers? A.—Yes.

NO MEETINGS HELD.

Q.—Was any meeting of the stockholders ever held so far as you know? A.—No.

Q.—Was any meeting of the directors held so far as you know? A.—No.

Q.—Do you know of any meeting corporation, which stated that the witness was president and director of the corporation and owned 48 of the 50 shares of the stock.

Annie M. Kaine of Norfolk st., Dorchester, was listed as having one share. Hazel W. Wood of Winchester owned one share.

In the reading of this document, Hall brought out that the witness had certified that the document was a true copy.

Q.—Is that your signature? A.—It is.

Hall then read the paper of the

First Bank Account Reveals Total of $5

Q.—It was intimated here yesterday, in something that was read, that you were related to William M. Wood of the American Woolen Company. Are you related to him?

A.—That is not the fact. I am not related to him in any way except in business.

Q.—I want to call your attention to certain papers, namely, the application for incorporation of the Pine Grove Farm Dairy Co.

Garrett's Moods Show Rapid Changes at Hearing

Oliver B. Garrett furnishes daily studies in physiognomy at the hearing now going on at the State House. At times he is all attention, taking a lively interest in the proceedings. Garrett Paces Back and Forth in the Corridor

During a recess of the hearing in his case at the State House today Oliver B. Garrett stepped out into the corridor and paced back and forth until the session resumed.

He wore a natty gray suit, black shoes, black and white figured necktie and a gray figured shirt.

on July 29, the report records visit by Dr. Wolfson and Dr. Burk, and consultation with Dr. McCormack. Does that refresh your recollection?

The answer shot back: "No."

DOCTOR WAS ARRESTED

Q.—The night report of July 29 shows that Dr. McCormack visited patient, and nose was treated by same doctor. Do you remember that?

Answer of "No" was made in a very low tone.

Q.—Your mind is a blank on that? A.—The only time I remember meeting Wolfson was the day I brought Garrett home. I was away all summer.

Q.—You were asked yesterday if you were an old time friend of Garrett and spent week-ends at his home, and you said this was not the case. A.—I did.

Q.—In July, 1927, you were arrested in Weymouth, charged with driving while intoxicated. A.—I was.

Q.—Did not Garrett appear as a witness for you in the Quincy court and testify you spent the week end with him and had been sober.

The doctor answered that he "did not spent the week end with him."

Then Mr. Hall said for the record: "It is fair for you to say you were found not guilty and discharged."

This ended the examination of Dr. McCormack.

At this point Mr. Hall offered in evidence the certificate of marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Garrett.

The names read were of Lillian Crowell and Oliver B. Garrett, mailed in Boston July 24, 1915.

No comment was made on that. The next document offered were of divorce decree granted Florence H. Woodside from Allen Woodside, in which desertion was alleged. The decree was made absolute in July, 1923.

Attorney Hall then introduced the marriage record of Oliver Garrett and Florence Woodside which stated they were married at Rockland, July 17, 1923. Hall called attention to the fact that her father's name was given as Edward Redden.

He continued: "I also offer in evidence a certified copy of the marriage of Allen C. Woodside to Florence H. Redden on Sept. 6, 1905. I might call attention to the fact that in the marriage certificate of her marriage to Woodside, Mrs. Garrett gave her birthplace as Windsor Forks, N. S., but in the marriage certificate of her marriage to Garrett, she gave her birthplace as Somerville, Mass.

"I now offer the only bank account thus far disclosed of either party, Oliver Garrett or his wife, in existence up to 1922.

"This is from the Charlestown Five Cents Savings Bank."

Hall read the following letter from George P. Nason, treasurer of the bank, dated March 8, and addressed to George B. Lourie, assistant attorney-general:

"Dear Sir: Agreeable to your request of the 7th, we inclose here-

Remembers Meeting Dr. Wolfson Only Once

The next card was for Sept. 3: "Much improved."

While this questioning was in progress, other clerks in the attorney-general's staff were looking up records of Dr. Wolfson's treatment of Garrett.

Q.—I want to refresh your memory, doctor. The hospital records of July 23, 1928, show that at 5:30 Dr. McCormack visited the patient

Doctor Denies He Tampered With Garrett Record

Dr. John Seare McCormack, Oliver B. Garrett's personal physician, denied tampering with his private records of services to the pensioned patrolman at the Garrett hearing today.

Asst. Atty.-Gen Damon Hall called his attention to a mark in the records which Hall declared was an erasure. Dr. McCormack couldn't see any mark.

"Isn't it a shadow from the other side? It's immaterial, anyway, for I have not attempted to tamper with the records."

where you were elected president and director of the corporation? A.—No, except that it was understood that I was to hold the office of president.

"It was suggested that I be president," he added.

Q.—Who suggested that? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you ever at any time see any books of the corporation? A.—No.

NEVER RECEIVED STOCK

Q.—Did you at any time see any records of stockholders? A.—No.

Q.—This document states you had 48 shares of the stock of the corporation. Did you ever receive those shares? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever have or see any stockholders' certificates of those shares? A.—No.

Q.—As president of the corporation, did you ever sign any stock certificates? A.—No.

Q.—Did you at any time, from the time it was incorporated until its dissolution, perform any services as president? A.—Nothing but sign the paper when the farm was sold.

Q.—And that was sold last November? A.—Within a year or two.

Q.—To its present owner? A.—Yes.

Q.—You performed no duties as president? A.—That's correct.

Q.—And you performed no duties as director? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you ever invest any money in the corporation? A.—I did not.

LOANED $100 ONCE

Q.—Did anyone in your family invest in the dairy farm?

Mr. Wood emphatically replied that "Nobody in my family put a dime in it."

Q.—Did you ever loan any money to Mrs. Garrett? A.—On one occasion, $100. That was repaid in a week.

Q.—Did you ever give her any money, since her marriage to Garrett? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever go to the farm? A.—Three times when I accompanied my wife to visit her mother.

Q.—Did you make any inquiries about the business? A.—Just casual.

Q.—Did you know Mrs. Garrett was a nurse before you married her daughter? A.—No.

Q.—I show you this document of incorporation. Your address is marked 197 Mystic Valley Parkway, Medford? A.—That's incorrect. It is Winchester.

IDENTIFIES SIGNATURE

Q.—Do you know how that notation came on there? A.—No.

Q.—Did you know this document was signed by Mrs. Anna Kaine? A.—No.

Q.—Did you know the Kaine woman was Mrs. Mulrenin? A.—No.

Q.—Who introduced you to her? A.—Mrs. Garrett.

Hall said to the witness: "I show you another document of dissolution of the corporation. It is signed by Attorney Thomas N. Creed."

The witness identified his own signature, as president.

Q.—I show you another document. It is signed by Hazel W. Wood, your wife, and yourself, as incorporators.

KNOWS NOT WHY HE SIGNED.

Wood identified the signatures of himself and wife.

Q.—Why did you affix your name to this document? A.—I can't understand for the life of me under what conditions I signed that paper. My name was on there, and I signed it, that's all.

As Atty. Hall was reading the document or incorporation into the records, he listed Allen Wood. The witness interrupted:

Will you kindly correct that to Allen Wood, Jr." he asked.

Mr. Hall replied: "Certainly, Mr. Wood. I understand your father knew nothing of this affair."

A.—That is correct.

Q.—Did you represent yourself a sthe son of William Wood, the mill owner? A.—Absolutely not.

Second Mrs. Garrett Was Cousin of First

Mrs. Allen Wood, Jr., daughter of Mrs. Garrett, by a previous marriage, took the witness stand and testified that during the several years her father and mother were separated, prior to their divorce, she lived with her mother, but spent some time in New York attending a designing school. She lived with her mother in apartments on Kent st. and Harvard st., Brookline.

Her mother did not rent rooms. She was working as a nurse and had no other income than that she received from nursing. She later moved to Glendale ave., Brookline, and while her mother was living there she married Mr. Wood and saw very little of her mother after that. She said her mother was a cousin of the first Mrs. Garrett and nursed the first Mrs. Garrett during her last sickness.

Referring to the incorporation papers of the Pine Grove Dairy Co., Mrs. Wood said she signed them as a favor to her mother.

DID NOTHING AS CLERK

She said she understood her mother thought incorporation was the best thing to do because if she was sued it would be the corporation and not her personally. The papers were presented to her in Hingham and she signed them.

Although she was named as clerk of the corporation she did not know of any meeting at which she was elected either as a director or clerk. She testified she had never seen a share of stock she was supposed to own, never kept any books as clerk, never saw the stock certificates nor was she ever called upon to sign them. She said she never invested any money in the corporation nor gave any money to her mother. Such loans as transpired between herself and her mother were small amounts transferred backward and forward during shopping trips.

FARM LOST MONEY

Q.—During the life of the dairy company did you visit the farm from time to time? A.—I drove down occasionally to see my mother.

Q.—On such occasions were you asked to perform any service for the corporation? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ask your mother how she was doing? A.—Yes. She told me that the farm was losing money. During the last two or three years the loss was a steady one.

Q.—Did you notice that the farm equipment and cattle herds were being enlarged from time to time? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ask where the money was coming from that was being lost?. A.—No.

Q.—Did you know Annie Kaine, wife of Dudley Malcolm Kaine? A.—I have known her quite a long time and saw her at the farm occasionally.

Q.—Was Mulrenin present when the corporation papers were signed? A.—No.

Q.—Did you see him at the farm time to time? A.—No.

WOOD IS RECALLED

This ended the testimony of Mrs. Wood and her husband recalled to the stand by Atty. Hall. He asked Wood ten questions.

Q.—In the spring of 1928 did Police Commissioner Wilson call you up by phone or converse you into the records, he listed Allen Wood. The witness interrupted:

Will you kindly correct that to Allen Wood, Jr." he asked.

Mr. Hall replied: "Certainly, Mr. Wood. I understand your father knew nothing of this affair."

A.—That is correct.

Q.—Did you represent yourself a sthe son of William Wood, the mill owner? A.—Absolutely not.

about Pine Grove Farm? A.—He sent a police officer, a captain, I believe, but I do not know his name.

Q.—Assuming that it was Capt. Patterson. Did you tell him you belonged to the William M. Wood family? A.—Absolutely no.

Mrs. Annie M. Mulrenin, wife of Dudley M. Mulrenin, whose name figured prominently during the past few days of the Garrett investigation, was called to the stand and questioned about the incorporation of the Pine Grove Dairy Co., of which she was one of the incorporators, signing her maiden name, Annie M. Kaine.

Q.—It appears that you were a director and also treasurer of the Pine Grove Dairy Co. A.—I don't know what I was.

Q.—Where was it you signed? A.—At Mrs. Garrett's home in Hingham.

Q.—Was there any lawyer present? A.—Yes, I think it was Mr. Maguire.

She was unable to further identify Mr. Maguire.

Q.—Why did you sign your maiden name? A.—I thought if anything happened it might effect my property held in my married name, so I asked those present if it was all right to sign my maiden name, and they said yes.

State Again Hints Doctor's Record Is Incorrect

DR. McCORMACK'S record of Oliver B. Garrett's treatment on Aug. 13, 1927, 11 days after he was injured in the wreck of a Boston police car, was read into the records as follows:

"Regular visit to Hingham. Confined to bed. Severe pains, head, especially over right eye. Swelling, tender on pressure. Treatment, sedative. Ice cap. Contusion and moaning and pain."

"Would you be surprised to know that he was out that day?"

Asst. Atty.-Gen. Hall asked the physician.

"Yes, sir," Dr. McCormack replied.

3 he complained of pain in his jaw, the doctor's records showed.

"Had he been in bed all that time?" pursued Hall.

"Yes."

"Sure of that?"

"He was in bed every time I saw him."

He then denied that he knew Dr. Wolfson who operated on Garrett at a hospital following his racing accident at Marshfield Fair last year and he at first denied that he knew Garrett was in a hospital.

Records of the hospital were brought in and they showed that on July 22 Dr. McCormack visited the hospital.

"That's the day I brought him home," said the doctor.

CONFLICT ON DATES

"But the record shows that you took him home on July 30," said Hall.

"Well, I didn't prescribe for him or treat him," was the answer.

A record of the hospital as of July 29 showed a consultation there between Dr. McCormack, Dr. Wolfson and a Dr. Burke.

"Does that refresh your recollection?" shot Hall.

"No!" Dr. McCormack exclaimed.

He also denied that he treated Garrett at the hospital, July 29, as shown in the hospital record.

It was disclosed that Dr. McCormack had been arrested in Weymouth for alleged drunken driving in July, 1927, and was found not guilty. A question whether Garrett was a witness for him drew an answer that was irrelevant to the point.

VISITED FARM 3 TIMES.

Wood testified that Mrs. Garrett, his mother-in-law, asked him in 1927 whether it would be advisable to "incorporate her holdings" in the Pine Grove Farm Dairy Co., and that subsequently the incorporation took place. Mrs. Garrett had expressed the wish that only members of the family be in the corporation.

Although he was made president and listed as the holder of 46 of the 50 outstanding shares of the corporation, Wood said he never saw the books, never even saw any shares and visited the farm only three times in company with his wife.

His only act as president and director of the corporation was the signing of a paper when the farm was sold something more than a year ago.

"Nobody in my family put a dime into it," he declared.

He said he did not know that the Mrs. Kaine, who owned a single share in the corporation and was listed as treasurer, was Mrs. Dudley Muldenin, wife of Garrett's alleged bootlegging friend.

He denied that he ever posed as a son of the late William M. Wood, woolen magnate.

In pursuance of his probe into every phase of the Pine Grove farm affair, Atty.-Gen. Warner summoned Mary G. Lincoln, town clerk of Hingham; James S. Dewar, assessor; Selectman Walter Jones, from whom some of the land was bought, and Frank Gardner, from whom another plot was purchased.

TWO SMALL ACCOUNTS

The evidence as to the Garrett bank accounts prior to 1922 showed two small accounts in the names of Oliver B. and Lillian Garrett in the Charlestown Five Cents Savings Bank. Whether Mrs. Garrett, always called Florence, gave her names as Lillian was not made clear.

The accounts were opened in 1917 and closed out in 1921. At no time was there any large sum on deposit.

Garrett entered the police force in 1919 and served at Station 15, Charlestown, as a patrolman until 1922, when he was transferred to Station 5.

In 1923 he was appointed to the liquor squad, remaining there as the leading raider until his transfer last year—a transfer effective in record only.

ENTER DIVORCE RECORD

The records of Mrs. Garrett's divorce and of Garrett's first marriage were introduced. Mrs. Garrett's decree became absolute in July, 1922, according to the reading, and she and Garrett were wed shortly afterward.

Hall called particular attention to the fact that Mrs. Garrett gave a Nova Scotia town as her birthplace in records of her first marriage and Somerville as her birthplace in the record of her marriage to the former policeman.

Mrs. Wood, Jr., introduced under questioning evidence of unusual human interest. It was to the effect that her mother was a cousin of the first Mrs. Garrett and nursed her during the illness which resulted in her death.

She said her mother thought it best to incorporate the Pine Grove Dairy "because if she was sued it would be the corporation and not her personally." She signed the papers, she said, and was listed as clerk and director as a favor to her mother.

She never attended any meeting, kept any books or saw any stock certificates of the corporation. She denied Dudley Mulrenin was present when the incorporation papers were signed.

WOMEN TAKE STAND

In 1928, she said, Police Commissioner Wilson sent a captain to

Dr. John Sears McCormick, Oliver B. Garrett's personal physician, is shown under examination by Special Asst. Atty.-Gen. Damon E. Hall in this Boston Evening American staff photo at State House hearing on Garrett's pensioning and conduct as former leader of Boston police liquor raiders. Others indicated in room are Mr. and Mrs. Allen H. Wood, Jr., both of whom testified also today, and Miss Nettl Gardner. interview her regarding the farm. She denied she told him she belonged to the William M. Wood family.

Her husband was then recalled and asked two questions, whether Wilson had sent a policeman to him about the farm and whether he had posed as a member of the William M. Wood family. To the first he answered affirmatively. To the second he gave denial.

Mrs. Annie M. Mulrenin, listed as Annie Kaine in the papers of incorporation of the farm, was then called. She was a director and treasurer of the farm company, according to the papers, but she testified that she didn't know "what she was."

She denied that her reason for using her maiden name was because she didn't want the name Mulrenin to appear.

"I thought if anything happened it might affect my property held in my married name, so I asked those present if it was all right to sign my maiden name and they said yes."

Charges Edison Co. Violates Charter

An intimation that the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. is violating its charter was made today by Attorney Wycliffe C. Marshall of Watertown at a continued protest hearing on Edison rates before the Public Utilities Commission.

Marshall, representing consumers, introduced the charter in evidence.

He read from exhibits to show the company serves 40 cities and towns, with 351,000 customers, an increase of 22,000 over 1928. In 1929, he said, the sales of the company amounted to practically $30,000,000. The net profit, he declared, increased $2,700,000 in three years from 1926 to 1929.

DRY LAW VOID, SAY LAWYERS

New York, March 13 (AP)—A new question of the constitutionality of the 18th amendment, not heretofore passed on by the United States Supreme Court, was raised today by a committee of the New York County Lawyers' Association, which recommended its presentation to the court.

Ratification of the 18th amendment by state legislatures and not by the people, the committee report said, violated the 10th amendment to the Constitution and was therefore illegal.

The report, adopted by the committee 6 to 1, is to be voted on at the next general meeting of the association in April or May.

After quoting the 10th amendment the report says:

"The State Legislatures, under control by either states or people have not been made the agents of the people to vote away the people's rights or to give any additional power over them."

Special assistant Atty.-Gen. Damon E. Hall today said any information concerning his salary or compensation is for the Attorney-General to disclose.

A few months ago the Attorney-General stated that he had $15,000 on hand and thought that would be enough for the present.

SUGAR TARIFF WILL STAND

Washington, March 13 (INS)—The "billion dollar" high protection alliance proved its might in the tariff wars today when the Senate refused to reconsider the sugar schedule and in effect approved for the second time a $32,000,000 increase in sugar duties.

A motion by Senator Nye (R.) of North Dakota, leader in the Democratic-Insurgent coalition to reconsider the sugar schedule, was defeated 38 to 47.

Three erstwhile Insurgents and nine Democrats voted with the alliance, indicating the old coalition had crumpled in the tariff warfare.

The result of the ballot reaffirmed the Senate rate of $2 per hundred pounds against Cuban imports and $2.50 against world imports. The ultimate rates will range somewhere between these duties and those of the House, which were $2.40 against Cuba and $3 for the world.

91 GREEN MEN NEVER KISS

Hanover, N. H., March 13 (INS)—Results of a class questionnaire made public today disclosed that more than two hundred Dartmouth College seniors would marry for money. Only 130 voted that way last year. One hundred and twenty-one seniors voted they would marry for love alone as against eighty-six voting that way last year.

Thirty-one seniors admitted that they had never been kissed by a "girl friend."

The favorite outdoor sport at Dartmouth is football.

Dartmouth's favorite type of girl must have brown hair, blue eyes, and be "snappy."

Rye is the favorite "throat tickler" of the class of 1930. Ale and beer ran a "dead heat" as chasers. One hundred and thirty-four drink as against 43 teetotalers, according to the questionnaire.

Al Marsters of Arlington, Mass., who, among other things, is class marshal, student fire chief and football player, captured the honor of "having done the most for Dartmouth."

'BIG 5' CANCELS SESSION SO AS TO SAVE SELF

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Joseph P. Cotton, acting Secretary of State, said today he regarded pessimistic reports from London on the progress of the naval conference as an indication of probable success—the "darkness just before the dawn."

London, March 13 (AP)—The heads of the delegations to the five-power naval conference strove vigorously today to find a ground for reconciling the seemingly insurmountable differences between France, Italy and the other powers on naval limitation.

It had been planned to hold a meeting of them all at 5 p. m. today to fix upon a time for a plenary session which might bring the entire situation before the public, but the conference of the chiefs was cancelled at midday without explanation.

It was surmised that the situation, threatening impasse and disbandment of the conference without having accomplished limitation other than at a high figure, had attained such delicacy that it was thought best to seek a solution of the dilemma through private conversations rather than at a larger meeting.

The first of these conversations took place this morning with a visit by Secretary Henry L. Stimson and Ambassador Morrow to Aristide Briand, French foreign minister and delegation head, at the latter's hotel.

M. Briand planned to confer with Premier MacDonald, general chairman of the conference, at the House of Commons this afternoon.

Briand Sees Big 5 on Rocks Within 2 Weeks

London, March 13 — Blaming Italy for the failure of the naval parley to reach an agreement, Aristide Briand, French Foreign Minister, today predicted the collapse of the conference within a fortnight.

The French leader was particularly gloomy over his failure to get a security pact for his nation at the naval conference and at the conclusion of a private conference with French newspaper men he was quoted as saying: "I have finished my role."

While Briand predicted the conference would only last another fortnight, British and American observers were inclined that it would be in session at least five or six weeks more. They are looking for a decided change during the coming week-end when Premier Tardieu of France is expected to reach London.

Washington, March 13—Congressman John W. McCormack of Boston introduced a bill today asking $300,000 to complete the work on the Constitution, now at the Boston Navy Yard.

and the show was continuous, Stagg said.

In contrast, he pictured the "quieter" streets of today.

As Stagg testified those in charge of witnesses in support of prohibition held a brief endorsing the Eighteenth Amendment prepared by Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, well-known economist. Fisher was not in the committee room and it was undecided whether the brief would be ready at today's session.

Stagg, whose name is known to colle gestudents throughout the nation, is one of the veteran coaches of the Western Conference, an organization composed of ten big universities in the Mid-West.

He said his home training "in comparative poverty was all that could be desired but the environment in which I played was far from helpful."

YOUTH IN REVOLT

"The saloons," he went on, "were our substitutes for the movies, the theater, the motor car, the radio, the seashore, reading and all. In bad luck, men drowned their sorrows at the bar; in good luck, they celebrated it there.

"In my judgement since prohibition has been put into effect, hundreds of thousands more children have had a fairer start in life than in pre-prohibition days. With the breakdown of the home life and with all the complexities of new opportunities for being misled, I tremble to think what this revolt of youth might have led to were prohibition not in operation."

Sherwood said:

"It has been alleged here by Grayson M. P. Murphy of New York, in particular, that all the business men of his acquaintance violated the eighteenth amendment and his decided inference was that business men generally throughout the country disobeyed this law.

HITS HEARINGS AS "SHAM"

"Of course that is not true. But what is the effect of such statements upon the growing boys and girls of upon that section of the laboring population of the country which does not have opportunity to know the truth and may be led to believe the worst?"

Denouncing the investigation as "primarily a publicity hearing," Sherwood asserted that if business men generally thought the repeal or modification measures before the committee had any prospect of passage, "the Capitol would not be large enough to hold the business leaders of the country who would be here to defend prohibition to the last ditch."

COUZENS POWER BILL BEFORE CONGRESS

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Legislation to place the power industry under the controlling hand of the federal government was before Congress today, sponsored by Chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee Couzens of Michigan.

The bill is the second to follow months of inquiry into and discussion of activities of the giant power companies. Couzens, a Republican, is the author also of another bill to reorganize the power commission, and was confident today of getting both the reorganization and th. regulatory proposals before the Senate this session.

"This is the first attempt to get the big power interests under government control," he said. "It would extend to power the same extent of control now exercised over railways by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and in addition it would give to the power commission authority to require reports of securities and operations of holding companies.

The bill for reorganization of the federal power commission will be voted upon by the committee at an early date. Extensive hearings have been held on it, resulting in indications from the administration of a reorganization of the present personnel.

The second bill, extending rate-making control over the power companies, came before the committee today, and Couzens intends to bring it up for consideration in public hearings as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way.

DESCRIBE NEW CANCER 'CURE' TO DOCTORS

Washington, March 13 (INS)—Before an audience of leading scientists, Drs. W. B. Coffey and John D. Humber today told the Senate commerce committee they had formulated an "extract" which they believe definitely checked and killed the malignant growth of cancer.

The "extract," Dr. Coffey said, was refined from the tissue in the "cortex of the suprarenal glands." He said his experiments showed one injection of the "extract" relieved pain, two injections ended pain and regular treatment resulted in "the cancer or malignant growth sluffing off and dying."

"When we inject our extract," said Coffey, "from two to sixteen drops if a patient is suffering great pain, there is an immediate relief. After two or three injections pain disappears. After we give several injections the cancer of malignancies begin to sluff off. There is a necrosis and it takes place from the center toward the outside."

Dr. Coffey paused, looked around the room at the crowd of scientists and calmly added:

"In autopsies, after patients have died we have found our extract had caused the death and necrosis of the very cancer cells.

"We know it is revolutionary," he added quickly. "We inject this extract at a spot foreign to the growth. In from 24 to 96 hours the cancer begins to sluff off. This has taken place in about 1300 cases not only of cancer but of sarcoma.

We are still experimenting until we can prove to the scientific world that we can demonstrate the truth of our principle."

The scientists present were Dr. C. C. Settle, of New York City, medical director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer; Dr. William W. Buffen, of New York, representing the Chemical Foundation; Dr. James C. Bloodgood, cancer expert from Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore; Dr. H. W. Blakeslee, science editor, and Surgeon General Hugh S. Cummings, of the Public Health Service.

MISS BOOTH IS 'FORCED' OUT OF SALLIES

London, March 13 (AP)—Commissioner Catherine Booth of the Salvation Army, daughter of the late Gen. Bramwell Booth, will leave the army, but not voluntarily, to write the biography of her father, Mrs. Bramwell Booth, the general's widow, declared today.

Mrs. Booth said her daughter wished to continue her work and also write the book, but that Gen. Higgins, new commander of the Army, had moved that she could not do both.

"I and my daughter are distressed that Gen Higgins has insisted upon her giving up her work as leader of women's social work of the Army because she wishes to write her father's life story," Mrs. Booth said.

Mrs. Booth added that her daughter had decided to write the book and to say farewell to some of the institutions with which she has been connected.

Says Dr. Bartlett Should Resign

Editor Boston American:

I was astonished to read two of the questions Rev. Dr. William Bartlett asked an audience of approximately one thousand people in the Park St. Church, namely: "If it means civil war to uphold prohibition what better cause is there?" and "Are you willing to go to war for prohibition?"

Now, if I interpreted these questions correctly, I must believe that Dr. Bartlett is not only advising but actually arousing the people to take up arms, go forth to war and slaughter each other that the Eighteenth Amendment may be preserved.

Rev. Dr. Bartlett, may I ask, is that the best possible attitude a man of your intelligence and position in life could take toward a problem of that nature? Certainly you are aware of the horrors of war, particularly civil war.

Looking at the situation from a religious standpoint, are you justifying your mission to God as his agent by kindling the fires of war, or worse, civil war. Does your action show true Americanism? I suggest, in justice to yourself, your party and the United States of America that you resign your position.

Canada's Freedom Has Limitations

Editor Boston American:

In view of a recent letter in your paper, I wish to say that the overseas dominions of the British Empire are not really independent, as you and I understand the term. It must not be inferred that I, as a Canadian, would advocate complete separation, or even desire such a change, which might not be the best for my country. The yoke is light, but it touches several tender spots: Canada cannot elect its chief magistrate. That high position must be filled by a British nobleman.

The Canadian judiciary has no court of final appeal, in important cases. That is a perquisite of the British law lords of the Privy Council. The fundamentals of the Canadian constitution were framed in an act of the Imperial Parliament, not of domestic origin, like that of the United States, and all other free countries. That instrument has always proved a setback to the provincial shore fisheries, at least in Nova Scotia. The question as to federal control of fisheries in some tidal waters (including the oyster industry) is yet unsettled. The Privy Council has been repeatedly asked to pass upon the matter but all its decisions yet handed down were too ambiguous to be trusted.

And England has a hand in regulating certain aspects of the fisheries. New England fishing boats are barred from the ports of the Maritime Provinces by virtue of an old edict of King George III, called a treaty, and held to be beyond the powers of repeal. The shore fishermen down east would welcome such intercourse as affording the opportunity to sell herring bait. Canada is not entirely free when any part of it can be dominated by a decree made in England over 200 years ago.

Has No Sympathy for Rum Drinkers

Editor Boston American:

In regard to "Mrs. Out Spoken's" letter on prohibition, I would like to give my viewpoint in reply.

During the recent election it was proven that the majority of the people in the United States approved of the abolition of liquor. The argument she used that people are being poisoned from poison liquor, in my mind is a very bad one, as a person who would drink against the Constitution deserves to be poisoned as they are worse than the bootlegger.

This person did not mention the hundreds of passages in the Bible where liquor is forbidden and spoken of as Satan's sting. Is it any wonder with people like this that our country is the laughing stock of other countries where a person like this would be punished to the full extent of the law.

Hotel Course at Harvard Favored

Editor Boston American:

I noticed in one of your papers that Cornell University has established a course in hotel administration. This is really vocational education. It is not cramming the mind, but making practical what we have learned so that we can make something out of it.

I hope that Harvard will follow suit.

A man told me the other day, that the hotel business was never as prosperous as it is today, notwithstanding prohibition. People want good food and they will pay for it. They are getting it in modern hotels as a rule. Many like the hotel life. It becomes after a time a social factor in the lives of many who would be deprived of this attraction if living and boarding in a private family. Those who have the means like hotel life as conducted today without the odor of alcohol.

All Laws Violated, Says Prohibitionist

Editor Boston American:

We must expect to read some peculiar unreasonable attacks upon prohibition. I have read some in your paper and intended to let them go into the waste basket of oblivion.

But what William Drudy said about prohibition in a recent issue is so deficient in common sense that it demands an answer. What he says against prohibition could easily be said against murder, theft and counterfeiting. Why not abolish laws against murder, for we are having more murders than ever before; so with theft and counterfeiting, the last has increased wonderfully, right here in Boston.

I do not think that prohibition is entirely satisfactory, but this I do know, after caring for drunks for 40 years in New York, Boston and mill cities in Massachusetts, conditions for three-fourths of the people are better under prohibition than under license or local option. I once lived in a town in this State where on the 20th of the month three-fourths of the people got soused, because it was pay day. Of course, if anyone has a strong thirst they will hanker after a drink, but prohibition, with all its faults, has done a great amount of good.

Skeletons Rattle in History Closet

Editor Boston American:

This Tercentenary Year will expose many evils of the past. An Episcopal minister of Ipswich, in this state, lately said in an address before the New England Historical and Genealogical Society, that John Hancock owed Harvard University $526. They will never get it, because it is outlawed.

John was one of the best smugglers of his day, though he did sign the "Declaration of Independence." In fact, it is well not to strain too far the morality of a few of these signers, if some records lately disclosed may be depended upon.

Personally, I would not be proud to be a descendant of six of the signers of that document. We have a right to be proud of many public men in this state today, who would not have been tempted to do what six of these signers did. Judged by modern morality, they would show many leaks in their methods.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark

By RUTH WAITE

Every woman with gray, faded or streaked hair is entitled to do something about it, for it is every woman's birthright to retain her youthfulness and charm as long as she can. When a woman mentions gray hair to me, I don't hesitate to advise the use of a restorer and I recommend sage tea and sulphur.

A lot of common garden sage, when properly combined with sulphur, restores gray hair to its original color, lustre and beauty. So perfectly does it do the work that its use is undetectable. You may either prepare the mixture at home or buy it already prepared and ready to use. Wyeth's Sage & Sulphur is the name of the prepared article and it costs only 75c a bottle at druggists. Hence there's no need of your bothering to prepare the mixture yourself.

You simply moisten a comb or soft brush with it and draw it through your hair, one strand at a time. The very first application banishes the gray and one or two more sees the hair beautifully restored to its original life and color. One would be surprised if she or he knew of the thousands who use this preparation.

HOLD ORDERLY AS 'RAFFLES'

Worcester, March 13—Hospital orderly by day, but leader of a gang of burglars at night, is the double life which police charge Herbert McLean has been living.

McLean, on parole from state prison, was arrested early today after 17 police officers, with drawn revolvers, entered his home on Lake st.

Police said the man, after being booked at headquarters, told them where they could recover more than $1000 of missing valuables hidden in woods near the Westboro town line.

McLean, arraigned in Worcester district court, pleaded not guilty to breaking and entering and was held in $2000 for the grand jury.

Woman Toy-Maker at Work for 65 Years

Cromwell, Ct., March 13 (AP)—Miss Kate F. Raish, 81, today completed 65 years of continuous service with the J. & E. Stevens Co. as a toy maker.

Her health is excellent. She walks three miles daily between home and factory and recalls a layoff of only a few days due to illness back in 1868.

Red Riot Leaders Released on Bail

New York, March 13 (INS)—William Z. Foster, head of the Communist party in America; Robert Minor, editor of a Communist newspaper; and three minor leaders, arrested as leaders of a riot here a week ago, were free on bail today.

Vitale Ousted From New York Bench

New York, March 13 (INS)—Magistrate Albert H. Vitale, storm center of happenings since the slaying of Arnold Rothstein, today was ousted from his judge's bench following his trial before the appellate division. He was found guilty of acting in a manner unbecoming a magistrate in accepting a loan from Rothstein.

He was acquitted of charges in connection with his dismissal of Charles Fawcett, confessed thief.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

MUSICAL ART GROUP WELL RECEIVED

By MOSES SMITH

Not all the signs in concert halls are direful. There are still people who want to see, as well as hear, their music performed. And they are not frightened even by those horrid words, "chamber music," for a good-sized company of them came to the third concert this season of the Musical Art Quartet in Jordan Hall last night.

It is good that this group is establishing itself with a Boston public. For chamber music—least of all, this particular string quartet—makes no "play" of a sensational nature. You come to hear music in its simplest, most direct and, some might add, its purest estate. And these New Yorkers, who made a favorable impression when they first came here, are playing better on each occasion.

There were times last night, especially while the Beethoven C minor, Opus 18 Quartet was being played, when we thought of the marvelous Flonzaleys, so beautifully did this newer ensemble revive the spirit of Beethoven. The performance was admirably clear, musical; it had well-nigh perfect tonal balance among the several strings. Phrases were in chiselled detail, but the broad outlines stood out as well.

The Brahms Quintet in F minor for piano and strings, a masterpiece which is becoming popular this season in Boston, had Felix Fox for its genie. This difficult music was played, it seemed to us, too circumspectly. Mr. Fox had graded his tonal mass to permit the strings to be clearly heard. But a more robust hand, in the turbulent Brahmsian measures, would undoubtedly have brought forth the requisite swelling in string tone, and would have better suited the music. Whatever the reason, the performance left us unsatisfied.

A quartet by Gliere, Opus 2, concluded the program. It was honest, tuneful, neo-Chaikovskian music, delightfully rendered by the performers. The audience was very enthusiastic, and indicated that another series by this group next year would be welcomed.

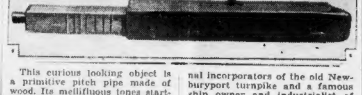
DAILY ANTIQUE

No. 45



This curious looking object is a primitive pitch pipe made of wood. Its mellifluous tones started off many a lively country "Singin' Skule" in early New England days. On the sliding wooden piston of the pipe are to be seen the eight marks indicating the steps for the various notes of the scale.

The pitch pipe has for generations been in the family of the present owner, Samuel J. Shaw of 1232 Beacon st., Brookline.

Mr. Shaw is a descendant of Josiah Bartlett, first governor of New Hampshire and first signer of the Declaration of Independence. Other distinguished forebears are his great-great-grandfather, Thomas Bartlett, who was younger brother of Josiah's father, Stephen Bartlett; Richard Bartlett, his great-grandfather, and the latter's brother, William Bartlett, one of the original incorporators of the old Newburyport turnpike and a famous ship owner and industrialist of the Newburyport-Amesbury region in the early part of the last century.

In connection with the Massachusetts Tercentenary Year, the Boston Evening American is publishing daily photographs of interesting antiques. Owners of genuine antiques, particularly of Colonial or early American origin or of historic association, are invited to forward photographs and records for publication. If a photograph is not available, the American will send a cameraman to photograph the antique, provided the owner lives in Greater Boston. Address the "Antique Editor, 3 Winthrop sq., Boston."

• What should be added to this recipe for

Pumpkin Pie?

Mash fine 2 cups cooked pumpkin. Add 1½ cups milk. Beat 3 eggs and to them add a pinch of salt, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ½ teaspoon cloves, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg. Stir this into pumpkin mixture and then fill baked pie-crust with it. Bake until custard has set and crust is done.

Now that you've read it—what's missing? Sugar! And if you include one-half cup with the beaten eggs you can proceed to make a fine pumpkin pie.

Through forgetfulness or by heeding some ill-advised person, sugar is often left out of the diet. Desserts are banished. Harsh diets are adhered to unhappily. The dining-table no longer invites you to enjoy food.

Such an attitude toward sugar is neither necessary nor in keeping with modern dietette and medical practice. Use sugar to flavor familiar foods and to make nourishing desserts. Sugar makes eating a joy and when this occurs the system is likely to get all the food values it needs. The Sugar Institute.

Blues to Be Worn With Flattering Results by Almost Every Type This Spring

THE good reliable blues, among which navy is the prize perennial, have always been kind to types. But the range of blues has perhaps never been so wide as it is this spring. Consequently, some who have never given the color due credit before will discover compliments in new dark and light tones of it introduced this season.

Dark to medium blues are excellent in coats and suits which will be subject to careful ensemble planning, for these blues permit an almost endless variety of interesting combinations.

TO the coat, first, may be partnered a print frock with motifs in blue on a white ground; or a print frock with a blue background in harmonizing shade, and introducing golden beige or peach; or a plain frock in a second blue that will make the ensemble distinctively individual.

The blue suit, depending on the shade of blue, may benefit from an accent of a subtle lighter blue, or from a blouse of apricot crepe de chine or multi-colored striped shirting silk.

THE little silk suit pictured shows the mid-Victorian influence on fashions—the sleeves especially being reminiscent of that era; it is of navy blue, star printed in eggshell tone, and appropriate for wear under a coat now, and for spring and summer later.

The little jacket with its bell-shaped sleeves ending below the elbow, is removable; the tuck-in blouse is of eggshell crepe, its sleeves ending in puffs above the wrist-band and complementing the jacket sleeves, its V necklina ending in a bow of the print, matching that at top of skirt. The fine pleats on the skirt give low-placed fullness.

BLACK and white and navy and white are excellent combinations, but they are sometimes a bit severe. Varying the touches of relieving light color to a delicate pastel is one smart way of avoiding the severity of black and white. Recently, lingerie touches in pink linen were seen effectively adorning a frock of black crepe. This offers a suggestion for the woman who dislikes wearing white next to her face in this day of collars and gulmpes and jabots.

Whether for day or evening, we may expect some of our new prints to be starred. A unique pattern of stars dots a silk fabric that has just been designed for resort wear. The star appears in small, medium and large patterns and is shown in white on a blue background, in eggshell on brown or green, and in white on black. This pattern has also been seen in chiffon for evening wear.

WHETHER or not pleats would return to a mode that has so thoroughly endorsed the flare is a question settled to a degree by the news that Chanel, the famous Parisian designer of sports clothes, includes pleated skirts in her spring showing of new styles.

Flares in extreme styles and restrained flares have become so much a part of the new fashions that the return of pleats is heralded as a decided novelty. Jerseys are used for many of the clever one-piece sports frocks that are always an important part of Chanel's offering.

WILL PRESENT IRISH BILL

The St. Alphonsus Players, one of the oldest organizations in the field of amateur theatricals in New England, will present a real old fashioned Irish time on St. Patrick's anniversary.

The Saints celebrate their 30th birthday this year and plan to commemorate this event with a bigger and better Irish program.

The committee in charge, which includes Francis M. Herlihy, chairman; Gerard B. Cleary, John J. Dean, Charles Shiels, John Rooney and Neil Sullivan, has arranged a gala array of Irish talent. This program will be rounded out by the appearance of St. Alphonsus Players in two one-act Irish comedies. In "The Mayor and the Manicure" will appear Frank Power, John J. Burke, Mary Teehan, Josephine Fallon. That Rascal Pat will have Joseph R. Cleary, Frank Shiels, Mary Hughes, Helen Teehan and Joseph E. McManus in the cast.

The show will be given on March 15 and 17 in St. Alphonsus Hall, Smith st., Roxbury.

Bitter Fight to Save Moscow Cathedral

Moscow, March 13 (INS)—One of the bitterest battles in the entire anti-religious campaign of certain elements of the Soviets is being waged here between leaders of the atheists' league and artists, actors and scientists over the proposed wrecking of the Cathedral of the Ascension in Moscow. Because of its historical associations, defenders of the church assert that it ought at least be preserved as a museum.

The actress Mlle. Yablochkina is leading the fight for preservation of the church. Atheists maintain that the church is a landmark of counter-revolutionaries A more out and out fight between churchgoers and atheists is being waged over the attempt to close the Choral synagogue, the largest in Russia.

Harvard-Yale Sixes May Play Fourth Game

FLATLEY SAYS

These Fouls Must Be Stopped Up to Boxers

EVERYBODY'S trying to find the cure for the fouling epidemic that has hit boxing: there hasn't been a show for months that didn't have something spotty attached. One ringside prospector thinks that the boys should be allowed to go to it, regardless. But that's out. Damon Runyon believes that a year's suspension to the fouler would cure the plague. But suspensions never stick.

Our own notion would be to cut a couple of holes in the ring about two feet apart, drop the boxers down until the forbidden sections were below the boards, and then let them go to it.

The first one to yell "uncle" would be ruled the loser, and there could not be any foul, unless the boys started to bite each others wrists.

The remedy, to be serious, rests with the boxers and managers. Ring fans will stand for more than any known mortals. But even they will burn up if the fouling keeps up.

The big money will vanish, which might help fighting, as fighting. With the large dough attached, there's too much room now for trickery. A boxer, getting licked, can toss a low punch and claim it was accident. The foul does not look as bad on the records as a kayo.

Holding up the fouler's money automatically, would help. But the managers and their scrappers must be made to see, also that they are running a juicy racket into the junk pile.

FOLLOWING precedent in the Fetkiewics case, the Braves might get out an injunction preventing teams from beating them by one run. Then they would cop the pennant.

By BILL GRIMES

AS the Tigers and the Arrows are both fighting for playoff berths, a fast, hard-fought battle will be offered the followers of Canadian - American League hockey, when Boston and Philadelphia meet in their final encounter of the season tonight at the Boston Garden.

The Tigers, who are the defending champions, need one more game to make the playoffs. Although they have not been winning with the same regularity that marked their play of a year ago, the Tigers have been going well of late.

They fell into a long and almost disastrous slump soon after the opening of the season, and have been forced to extend themselves to their utmost to recover the ground lost.

For the past week the Tigers have been idle, as far as scheduled games were concerned. But Manager Eddie Powers has been holding practice sessions daily, and the team has greatly benefited by the break in the schedule.

Boyd Recovers From Injury

A week ago Yank Boyd was handicapped by a bad knee, but he has fully recovered, and will be at his right wing berth against the Arrows. Boyd, who came up from the amateur ranks last fall, was a sensation during the early weeks of the season. But, like his teammates, he went into a slump which had a strong bearing on the failure of the Tigers to chalk up a victory for a stretch of more than a fortnight.

However, Yank has been back in form of late and his recovery, put the champions back in their stride.

Manager Eddie Powers is especially anxious to wind up the Philadelphia series with a victory. The Tigers have three more games after tonight and the Tiger mentor is desirous of resting up Capt. Frank Waite and Reg. Mackey.

Waite is the leading scorer of the Dooley circuit and Manager Powers plans to rest him up until the playoffs, if his club comes through tonight. Mackey, who is constructed along about the same lines as Waite, is down very fine and although he has been playing the best hockey he has ever shown since he joined the Tigers, could stand a lay off.

Osborne Winning Favor With Hockey Fans

Dutch Osborne, who replaced Clark Heyd at left wing on the second line, is rapidly becoming a favorite with the followers of the Tigers.

Working with Eddie Burke and Sonny Manning, Osborne, another amateur picked up by Manager Powers, has proven a find for the Tigers. He is fast, works hard, possesses a beautiful shot and is just rough and game enough to prevent any opponents taking liberties with him.

The Tigers will start Deacon Waite at center with Johnny Loucks and Yank Boyd on the wings, and the Boston trio will be opposed by Lloyd Andrews, who will face-off for the Arrows.

When the first replacements are made the Burke line will carry on for the Tigers against Bob Taylor, the Brookline boy who has been starring for the Quaker City team of late. Klein and Bradley.

Yip Foster and Reg Mackey will be assigned to protect Herb Rheaume, while Mush Roberts, a Somerville boy, will have Frank Peters and George Nichols guarding the Philadelphia points.

Harvard Boxers Meet March 19

Harvard's annual boxing championships will get under way March 19 when elimination bouts in every class from bantamweight to heavyweight will be held at Hemenway Gymn.

Coach Larry Conley, who will send four pick Harvard first boxing team announced today that this years bouts were drawing more entries than ever before.

This is due to the fact that the winners in the coming glove festival will be the logical members of next year's team. Semi-finals and finals in each division will be fought a week later, March 26. A capacity crowd is expected to jam the gymnasium.

JUST WHY HARVARD AND YALE PLAYED A 2-2 TIE

Harvard and Yale played a desperate 2-2 tie in the third game of their annual hockey series. The Crimson carried the game to the Elis, who were favorites, and it took a lot of brilliant defending by Goalie Curtiss to keep his team in the battle. He is shown here knocking aside two mean Harvard shots, one by Bobby Giddens, the other by Capt. Elliott Putnam. Goalie Ellis, the Harvard hero, also turned in a lot of Tiny Thompson stuff.

Ed Connolly Shifts Over at Bat

By JOE CASHMAN

Pensacola, Fla., March 13—Can Eddie Connolly hit left-handed? That's the question of the hour in the Red Sox camp. Convinced after two weeks of practice that he wasn't hitting as a big leaguer should, the young catcher asked and received permission to change his style.

Immediately he showed a big improvement with the stick. He met the ball far more consistently and drove it much harder and further than he ever did while swinging right-handed.

It will certainly be a great break both for the kid and the club, if he can keep it up. Except for his hitting, he has been a "big time" catcher almost from the time he broke in.

He came up from the sandlots of Brooklyn in 1927 possessing as fine an arm as any catcher in either league and an invaluable knack of catching with his gloved hand which few, if any other receivers in the game today, can equal.

Connolly Changes Stance at Bat and Does Well

And the few things he didn't know about the job, due to lack of experience, he quickly picked up. But he couldn't hit. So he had to spend the past two seasons in Pittsfield.

Knowing that he had to make good this spring or pass out of the picture, he came down determined to hit well enough to stick.

His determination didn't get him anywhere, however, while he continued to stand up there right-handed.

It was then that he conceived the idea of switching his stance at the platter.

He suggested it to Jack McCallister. The coach didn't think much of it at first. He told the youngster that it would be better to wait until he was in better shape. That ended the matter until another player informed McCallister that Connolly had been a left-handed batter originally.

The coach asked Eddie about it and the catcher admitted it. Which changed the complexion of things. He was told to start at once. It was easy to see that he had batted that way before as soon as he stepped up there. He seemed to have more confidence.

Sox Had Hard Time Beating Pensacola

Providing he continues to succeed, the Sox have a fine catcher. The team had a great workout in the second game with the Navy. The same sailors who proved such soft picking on Sunday last were in the battle every minute and the Sox had all they could do to squeeze out a 4 to 3 win. The game showed that most of the boys are weak against left-handed pitching.

Heving Agrees to Sign With Sox

Pensacola, Fla., March 13—Catcher Johnny Heving, lone Red Sox holdout, wired President Bob Quinn today that he would arrive in camp tomorrow morning to sign a contract.

DEMPSEY MAY FIGHT CARNERA

New York, March 13 (INS)—Jack Dempsey will return to the ring and his first battle will be against Primo Carnera in Chicago in September, according to reports circulated here today. Dempsey, it was said, will promote the bout himself.

Walter Friedman, Carnera's chief American advisor, was said to be an confleeng of the reported Dempsey-Carnera fight that he refused a bout for Carnera with Kayo Christner here in the Garden, it was reported.

Carnera drew $22,000 against Solly Montgomery at Minneapolis on Monday night, and the average gate at Minneapolis is $40,000. His next start will be against Chuck Wiggins at St. Louis on March 17.

Crosscup-Pishon Golf Tournament

The Crosscup-Pishon Post, No. 281, American Legion, will hold its annual golf tournament October 6 and 7, the week of the national encampment of the American Legion here.

Chairman Jim Fay of the legion post golf committee has secured, through Roger Fowle, the use of the Sandy Burr C. C. at Wayland. The tourney will run two days.

Harvard Mat Teams Entered in Meet

Harvard varsity and freshman teams were entered in the New England Intercollegiate wrestling championships to be held March 14 and 15 in Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Both teams have an exceptional record this season, the freshmen going through with a clean slate, victorious in seven matches, until they ran into the snag of the Yale cubs.

The Crimson varsity shows great trength in the heavyweight classes. Only one defeat has been registered over it, Grimes grappler in the weights from 165 pounds up.

Charlie Newhart, wrestling for his first season of competition, lost a referee's decision to the Pennsylvania captain two weeks ago.

Bouts in all Classes at St. Joe's Tourney

Novice boxers in every class from the 112's to the heavyweights will battle Saturday night in the third Diamond Ring elimination amateur boxing tourney to be staged at St. Joseph's T. A. S. in Mechanics Building.

The winners in the tourney Saturday, as well as the losers in the preceding and two to follow, will battle in the grand finals March 29 at Mechanics.

Collegiates Win

The Revere Collegiates led by Jerry (The Great) Caporale, remained undefeated when they turned back MacCarthy's All Stars at Revere High school last night, 27—24.

The Blue and Gold team showed too much class for the All Stars, and were always in the lead. Russell, Collegiate forward, was the star of the game, piling up 14 points.

Fans to Honor Gagnon and Chapman

IN appreciation of the fine playing of Johnny Gagnon and Art Chapman, both of whom will go up to the big show next season, the Providence fans are collecting donations, which will be divided between these two favorites.

THE improved article of hockey offered by the New York Americans has failed to make a hit with either Les Canadiens or Ottawa. The Senators are in New York tonight with the Americans, and close their season at home on Saturday with the same club, while the Conacher tribe will be the Frenchmen's final attraction at the Forum next Tuesday. For weeks, Ottawa and Canadiens have been banking on winning over the Americans, but their chances are not so good.

IMAGINE the wild stories which I would now be in circulation throughout this country and Canada, if Babe Siebert and Archie Wilcox of the Montreal Maroons and Frank Boucher of the Rangers had been injured while playing against the Bruins, instead of Les Canadiens.

DURING the first three or four seasons the Bruins have been in the N. H. L. the type of hockey they offered brought adverse criticism on almost everyone connected with the club. But, in spite of the fact that the Bruins have been playing as clean, if not cleaner, than any other outfit in the league, they are still regarded as the bad men of the N. H. L.

IN all probability, the injuries to Siebert, Wilcox and Boucher were accidental. Nobody has made an issue of the fact that they all occurred while playing Les Canadiens, for, over a period of many years, the Frenchmen have established a fine reputation for clean play.

BUT, had Siebert, Wilcox and Boucher been put out of action by the Bruins, the fans all over the country and Canada would now be crying for their scalp. They would have visualized the Boston team as the Bruins of three years ago and would have convinced themselves that the Rosenpen had gone out and deliberately put these players out of commission.

AS attested by the mild manner the press and hockey public has taken these accidents, a reputation for clean play is a valuable assest.

FRANK BOUCHER, who broke his collarbone in a collision with Marty Burke, is out for the season, but there is a chance of Siebert and Wilcox getting into play-off games.

MARTY BARRY has been humped around, tripped, hooked, slashed, kneed, butt ended and high sticked all season, without even taking the trouble to look around to see, who was giving him

FRENCH FANS TO BACK DIGLANE

The greatest crowd of French wrestling fans that ever attended a match in this country will gather in the Arena one week from tonight when Henri Diglane, undefeated French heavyweight champion, meets Dynamite Gus Sonnenberg for the championship of the world in a finish match.

A group of 400 will make the trip from Montreal to watch the French idol in his bid for world-wide honors, and wrestling enthusiasts of French extraction from Manchester, Nashua, Lawrence, Lowell, Dover, Sanford, Me., Biddeford, Me., and Woonsocket, R. I., will turn out in throngs to watch the undefeated Diglane in action.

The bout has attracted more attention than any wrestling match since Sonnenberg squared away with Bob "Bibber" McCoy. Diglane has worked his way into a commanding position by a long and clean-out series of victories, and he will be an even-money bet to take the title away from Gus the Great.

The French flash has defeated Stanley Stasiak, John Grandovich, Karl Lemle, Harry Mammus, Freddy Meyers, Abe Kaplan, Frank Tyrell, Jack Veneto, Leo Vito, Charles Platas, Joe Rogaski, John Podubbny, Bob Wilkie, Jack Sherry and Wilbur Schaefer in quick succession. His two battles with Sherry were among the greatest ever staged in a box ring, and earned for him the right to challenge Sonnenberg's supremacy.

19 Games on Conn. Aggies' Schedule

Storrs, Ct., March 13—Connecticut Aggies baseball squad has had indoor battery practice the past week and, it is expected, will be able to do some work on the diamond next week. The schedule for this season was announced, as follows:

April 12, West Point, at West Point; 16, East Stroudsburg Normal school, at East Stroudsburg, Pa.; 17, Albright College, at Reading, Pa.; 18, Rutgers University, at New Brunswick, N. J.; 19, Pratt Institute, at New York, N. Y.; 26, Clark University, at Worcester, Mass.; 2, Springfield College, at Springfield, Mass.; 3, Connecticut University, at Storrs; 6, Wesleyan University, at Storrs; 7, Trinity College, at Storrs; 17, Rhode Island State College, at Kingston, R. I.; 21, University of New Hampshire, at Durham, N. H.; 22, Colby College, at Waterville, Me.; 23, University of Maine, at Orono, Me.; 24, Bates College, at Lewiston, Me.; 30, Fordham University, at Fordham, N. Y.; May 1, Wesleyan University, at Middletown, Ct.; 3, Rhode Island State College, at Storrs; June 7, Springfield College, at Springfield; 14, Williams College, at Williamstown, Mass.

Northeastern Five Has Stiff Schedule

With the most accomplished basketball material in Northeastern history expected to be available next season, Coach Al McCoy has arranged a schedule of 19 contests.

He loses only two players by graduation.

Coach McCoy has a fine freshman squad reporting. Capt. Kenneth Church and Charles Brown, speedy forwards; Nils Gustavson, center, and Donald Rose, sharp-shooting guard, are but a few of the eligibles to report.

Sophs Beat Frosh

The Tufts College Sophomores defeated the Freshmen, 31 to 19, at the Goddard gym. Blair Robison played a fine game for the Sophs, while the defensive playing of Harry Hymanson was the outstanding freshman performance.

Bouquillon Arrives in Hub Today

Mose Bouquillon, heavyweight champion of France, will arrive in Boston today for his 10-round bout with Joe Monte of Brockton Monday night at the Boston Arena.

Monte has already started training at Toland's. Monte is in the greatest shape of his career and after his victory over Harry Allen is of the belief that he can take the measure of any heavyweight thrown in against him.

In the recent "Battles of the Palms" at Miami, Bouquillon was outpointed by Jim Maloney, but until the time Maloney opened up a bad cut over Bouquillon's eye it was the best fight of the show.

Bouquillon, as game as the great little Eugene Criqui, former featherweight champion of the world, is pointing for a bout that will land him in the race for the heavyweight crown.

Phil Richards, one of England's best welterweights in years, will again battle Young Nadeau of Somersworth, N. H., in the eight-round semi-final. Their last bout was stopped at the end of six rounds to allow the main affair to go on at 10 o'clock. This week Nadeau and Richards will climb into the ring at 9 p. m. to assure the fans of seeing the full eight rounds.

Shires Must Be Good or Quit Sox

Chicago, March 13 (INS)—Either Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires must capitulate to certain prescribed rules of conduct or he cannot be a member of the 1930 White Sox baseball club, it was made known in a letter sent to him at his home in Italy, Texas.

Harry Grabiner, secretary-president of the Sox, placed the cards on the table in a letter answering the "apology" dispatched by Shires. Comiskey informed Shires that he needed reassurance on several points of conduct before compromise would be possible, Shires was suspended last season for boisterous conduct.

CONFERENCE WILL DECIDE TODAY

FOR the first time in the annals of Harvard and Yale hockey, four games will be necessary to determine the winner. The Crimson puck chasers took the first game but the Elis came back with a victory in the second encounter, and last night the teams were deadlocked after 90 minutes of play.

At the Garden, the Crimson and Blue battled through 90 minutes of terrific hockey. Charlie Cunningham came through with the first goal but before the end of this chapter "Ding" Palmer and Frank Luce teamed up for a goal which put Yale on even terms with Harvard.

The sextets fought through 20 torrid minutes in the second period without either team scoring, and it looked like a Harvard night when Bobby Giddens scooped a Cunningham rebound into the net just before the whistle. Hickok equalized when he drove home a goal from scrimmage.

After two scoreless overtime periods, it was decided that the teams would play a sudden death. For the next 10 minutes the teams battled but to no avail, and at the conclusion of 90 strenuous minutes it was decided that a fourth game would be necessary to decide the winner.

Decision Will Be Made Some Time Today

Prof George B. Nettleton of Yale University, William J. Bingham, athletic director of Harvard University talked for half an hour on the telephone in regards to a fourth game to settle the Harvard-Yale hockey series, which is tied at one game each, but no decision was reached in their conversation.

Prof Nettleton will communicate with Mr. Bingham later in the day and possibly a verdict will be given as to whether or not a fourth game will be played. Many doubt that there will be a deciding contest.

Regardless of the outcome of the next game, Capt. Eliot Putnam's team will go down in history as one of the greatest sextets that ever represented Harvard. At the start of the Yale series Harvard was not given even an outside chance of winning.

They went into the opening game in New Haven as underdogs, but came through with a victory. Yale won the second game mainly through a remarkable playing on the part of the referee, for the goal which put Yale out in front was the result of a questionable decision on the part of "Ding" Palmer, while the third goal was kicked into the Crimson net by Bobby Hillyer.

Barry Wood, Klint Putnam, Sam Batchelder, Johnny Garrison and Bobby Giddens have all been featured in this series, but the real hero has been Harwood Ellis, the former Country Day school boy. Two weeks before the Yale series Ellis was rated as less than an average goal minder, but he has risen to great heights during the past fortnight and has held Yale to seven goals in three games, a feat hitherto unaccomplished this season.

Horween Reviews Harvard Grid Troops Monday

EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

BIG SQUAD TO REPORT FOR PRACTICE

HARVARD'S football spring training session begins next Monday, St. Patrick's Day. At that time, Coach Arnold Horween will come from Chicago to greet a large squad of Crimson gridmen.

Horween is expected to be present at the spring session for the first and last weeks only. In the absence of the head coach, Captelect Ben Ticknor will take charge of the training.

Fred Mitchell's baseball ranks will be temporarily deserted as Ticknor and his cohorts begin their spring pigskin work. Barry Wood, Eddie Mays, Charlie Devens and Sam Batchelder are other football men who will be forced to hang up the cleats for a while.

The spring training period will be divided into weeks of conditioning, team drill, and some scrimmaging.

A full bench of coaches will report to Ticknor when the call comes next Monday. Duke Dunn, who coached the Harvard line to perfection last season, will probably accompany the head coach on his way East from the Windy City.

Special stress will be placed on lateral and forward passing practice, as this will be one of the features of Harvard's 1930 eleven.

The session will last about three weeks, when the moleskins will be put back into moth balls until Horween calls the squad out, Sept. 15.

SOCCER FINAL NEXT SUNDAY

One of the greatest eastern finals of the National soccer-cup competition in the history of the game will be played at the Polo Grounds next Sunday, when Bethlehem and Fall River fight it out for the right to meet the western champions in the grand finals.

With two such renowned cup fighters called upon to produce the champions of the East, a hair-raising battle can be expected and the large crowd which will be on hand will get an avalanche of thrills before the final whistle is blown.

Both finalists have made many appearances in the big final, Bethlehem having won the trophy five times while the Atlantic Coast League leaders have annexed the cup thrice and at the present time rule slight favorites to win the honor for the fourth time.

The teams are two of the very best in this country, which is sufficient guarantee that a great game will be seen. Both are past masters at the short passing game and well supported with sterling defences, should make the going very close and exciting for the entire 90 miuutes of play.

The kickoff is corded for 3 o'clock and the big classic will be preceded with a preliminary game between the American Bank Note team and the First Germans of Newark in the semi-final of the New York State Cup competition.

Babe Ruth Has "Charlie Horse"

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 13—With no exhibition game today, Bob Shawkey put his ball players through a stiff workout this morning at Crescent Lake Park.

The only players on the hospital list now are Benny Bengough, whose injured finger is almost healed, and George Herman Babe Ruth, who pulled up with a light charley horse in his right leg after the game with the Braves. The leg pained him a bit this morning, and he took things easy during the workout.

He declared that he would be out at the ball park today and try a new long-distance record in batting. The Babe has yet to hit the ball into the lake that nestles back of the right and centerfield of the local ball park.

Jellison's Loss Fails to Hurt Huskies

When Russell Jellison dropped out of Northeastern and joined the B. A. track team, the Huskies appeared to be weakened in the distance runs.

Jellison, after winning four cross-country meets last fall for the Red and Black, was expected to win a great many college honors on cinder paths.

But Coach Edward Parsons took the other five members of the cross-country team, of which Jellison was the star, and every one of them scored in the dual meet with Harvard last week-end, accounting for all but one point in the mile and two-mile races.

Greenlee, a sophomore from Natick, has come very fast, and, in practice last week, surprised the coaches by stepping with Janet McCrudden in a half-mile trial, and also clinging to Francis Shea's heels in a quarter-mile trial. As McCrudden and Shea are both New England A. A. U. champions, the youth's showing was no little.

MEDICINE BALL KEEPS BRAVES IN TRIM

Columbia Five Wins College Title

Philadelphia, March 13—Columbia University won the Eastern Intercollegiate basketball title by defeating Pennsylvania, 29 to 23.

It was the first time Columbia has won the title since 1926.

Columbia led at the half, 12 to 9. Penn tied the score at 15 in the first 10 minutes of the second half, but Columbia put on a burst of speed and pulled away. Gregory led Columbia's attack and his field goals were the result of brilliant shots. Pennsylvania has one more league contest, meeting Princeton in the final.

Appleby Leading in Billiard Tourney

St. Louis, March 13 (AP)—Edgar Appleby of New York, today occupied the top position in the national amateur 18.2 balkline billiard tournament by virtue of three victories, including a 300 to 140 count over M. C. Wallgren, the Pacific Coast champion, which he scored last night.

Appleby ran out in 14 innings, the fastest match of the tourney, with an average of 21.43.

Appleby is not scheduled to play today, but Ray V. Fessenden, the Madison, Wis., contractor, who is defending his title was in meet two opponents. J. F. Peabody of Chicago, who has lost all four matches, and Wallgren. The other match today was between Percy Collins, Chicago, and Arie Schaap, St. Louis.

Y.M.H.A. TO HOLD SPORT NIGHT

The annual Boston Y. M. H. A. athletic jamboree is on the program for Tuesday, March 18. A brilliant and versatile program has been arranged.

It is to be in the form of a testimonial to the championship basketball team which has just been designated as the most outstanding Jewish Community Basket Ball Club in New England to represent this district in the National Y. M. H. A. Tourney at Newark, New Jersey on March 29 and 30.

Several boxing and wrestling matches are on the card which promise to give the members a real thrill. Nine reels of motion pictures of championship boxing and wrestling matches have been secured. Among these is the Sonnenberg vs. Lewis match at the Boston Garden last January, also a very recent Sharkey fight picture.

New officers will be inducted at the meeting. Councillor Al Mogul of Ward 7, Malden, will swear in the new officers. The officers are Harry Gopen, president; Frank Brodsky, vice pres., Dick Harrison, treas., and Jack Berg, secretary. The speaker of the evening will be Maxie Sparks, local boxer, who will talk on forming a boxing team among the members. Al Mogul, Harry Gopen, and Pauline Kaplan will also speak. William S. Lee is master of ceremonies.

SCHOOL COURT TOURNEY ON AT TECH

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology interscholastic basketball tournament has the schoolboy athletes in eastern Massachusetts talking.

The tournament will open at 2 this afternoon in the Hangar gym, Cambridge, when Durfee and Brockton high school fives meet.

The second afternoon game will bring Medford and Mansfield high school teams together at 4. Tonight Lynn English and Haverhill clash at 7:30 and Chelsea and Watertown meet at 8:30.

Chelsea, because of its two victories over Brockton, is the favorite with close followers of the popular indoor sport.

It is doubtful if better matched teams ever competed in one tournament. Mansfield has the best record, but it is a question whether the Hockamock champion is in the same class as the larger schools such as Chelsea, Brockton, Medford, Lynn English and Haverhill. Medford high, which has been competing in tournaments since 1925, has always been a good tournament five, and Capt. Harold Mc. Lucas' team may uncover a few surprises.

Lynn English high school is a worthy opponent for any one. It has no easy rival in its initial game. Capt. George Chipouras, Larry McGovern, Jerry Cross and Tony Geniawics are Lynn English players who have caused their opponents no end of trouble.

It is possible that Brockton may recover its midseason form, and if so its opponents will have to extend themselves.

Set Date for Meet

The Harvard University swimming championships will be held April 1 in the new tanks, which have just been completed in the new Indoor Athletic Building, still under construction on the corner of Holyoke and Eliot sts., Cambridge.

The events are 50-yard freestyle, 220-yard freestyle, diving, 100-yard backstroke, 200-yard breaststroke, 100-yard free style, intercolas relay, University relay.

Four Classes on Milkman Show

All indications point to a fine entry list for the Milk Wagon Drivers' Local, No. 380, when they hold their open amateur boxing tournament, Thursday evening, March 20, at the old Scenic Temple, 20 Berkeley st., South End.

The committee have arranged for boxing in four classes, namely, 118, 126, 135 and 157-pound classes. Entries for this tournament close with Johnny Ford, 84 Windsor st., Medford.

J. J. Whitney's Horse Lame After Victory

Cheltenham, Eng., March 13 (AP)—J. H. Whitney's steeplechaser, Eastern Hero, was found to be lame after winning the gold cup here Tuesday and it is extremely doubtful if he will be able to compete in the Grand National, in which he has been a favorite.

MORANG GOOD HIGH JUMPER

Almon Morang, Northeastern's star high jumper, has developed into a capable pole vaulter this winter. He cleared 11 feet for the first time in the Amherst meet, taking second place to the Northeastern captain, George Martin, who is the New England A. A. U. and Eastern intercollegiate champion.

Morang's pole vaulting is all the more creditable when he leaped five feet 11 inches to tie for first in the high jumping event with his teammates, Jack Morley and Curtis Scott. The 1929 Husky captain's college record is six feet two inches.

Morley is the youth who scored Northeastern's only points in the New England intercollegiates in his freshman year, broke his back a few days later and then came back last winter by jumping six feet at the Boston Y. M. C. A. meet.

Scott, freshman basketball center in 1928, never did any high jumping until Joe Zeller started coaching him. Northeastern also has two other varsity high jumpers who will bear watching. They are Philip Freeman and Sterling Douglas, the latter also being a hurdler.

the business. In the Blackhawks' game at the Garden on Tuesday Marty got up his Irish and was all set to give Ari Somers the works when Bill Shaver stepped in and sent them to the cooler.

BY the way, Marty Barry came out of the Chicago game with a badly injured elbow. As usual Marty said nothing about having been hurt and he would have gone without having his injury treated had not Trainer Win Green noticed that he was in trouble getting into his overcoat.

EXCEPTING the fact that Les Canadiens have scored three more goals than Ottawa, these clubs have identically the same results for their season's play. They have won 20 games, lost 14, tied eight and have been scored on 108 times. Should Maroons lose to Toronto and the Flying Frenchmen and Senators win both their remaining games, the league will have a fine time trying to determine which club was entitled to first place.

Martha Norelius to Wed Oarsman

White Sulpher Springs, W. Va., March 13 (AP)—Martha Norelius, Olympic champion swimmer, and Joe Wright, Jr., famous Canadian oarsman, are engaged to be married, it was learned today. It is understood they plan to be married here Saturday.

MAY ADOPT HOCKEY AT N. E.

Although no action has been taken by Northeastern's athletic committee, hockey is expected to be voted into the regular sports program soon.

During their first season, the Huskies more than fulfilled the hopes of their youthful coach. Nelson Raymond, shutting out Mass Aggies and Bowdoin at Boston Arena, and losing none of their other five games by more than a two-goal margin.

Charles Kerins, of West Medford and Melrose high, a defense man and leading scorer of the team, will probably be succeeded as captain next year by the other regular defense player, Roger Emery, of Watertown and Watertown high.

The hockey banquet will take place next Tuesday night, and by that time the status of hockey next year will be definitely known.

Wet Grounds Postpone Clash of Braves and Mackmen

TRIBE SHOWS REAL SIGNS OF CLASS

By BILL CONNELL

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13—Connie Mack brought his world's champion Athletics here today for the first of their two-game series with the Braves.

But rain and wet grounds spoiled the party. The teams play again tomorrow.

The Tribe was carefree and confident after its victory over the Cards here. The St Louis team was minus Frisch and one or two other dependables, but even so the showing of the warriors was good and the Boston win over the Cards made the boys figure that they have started to click along smoothly.

These men who now are slated to start against the A's stand a good chance of opening the regular season, in April, provided they hold their present form and injuries do not upset plans.

Walter Berger, Earl Clark and Lance Richbourg, in left, center and right fields respectively, form a finer training season outfield than the Braves have had for a long while.

If they stand up under the competition the Mackmen are sure to offer they will have gone a long distance toward earning billets in the Braves Field garden.

Neun Shows Ability With Bludgeon

Johnny Neun was set to perch on the initial sack. This drafter has made a great impression in his last couple of games. He was known as a good fielder, but now he has started to smack the ball.

Neun is very likely to start the season if he holds his stride of the past few days. That means he will displace the veteran and heavy hitter of last year's Braves, George Sisler.

Neun has looked pretty good," admitted McKechnie. "He is hitting well now, and has made some wonderful plays in the last couple of contests. It will help George Sisler out in the opening lap of the regular schedule to have Neun around.

Sisler is no longer a young ball player, and the addition of Neun to the team means that George will not have to work so hard in the early games."

In the infield with Neun Fred Maguire was at the keystone sack. Rabbit Maranville at short, and Randy Moore at third. Moore is a young outfielder, who has been stuck on third, looks better each season.

Although he has had a little practice at the hot corner, he was not at home on third when the training games came around here in St. Pete. McKechnie has coached Moore painstakingly, though, and Randy rapidly is improving.

Cooney and Smith Due to Take Rubber

His batting is good, and he has a great arm. The ball goes over to first like a bullet, and just as straight. And Moore can fling the pill from almost any position, on or off balance.

Johnny Cooney and Bob Smith are likely choices tomorrow for the pitching assignment. These boys are good shape. They need to be, if they are to check the battering Athletics. The pair feel fresh and will do their best to make a good showing.

Hank Gowdy and Al Spohrer will handle the offerings of the Tribal mounthen.

GOOD GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON
Golf's Greatest Teacher

If in your golf swings you make effort to apply great power, or if with physical strength you try to draw the club from in back of you and attack it against the ball, instead of starting it first from the top, and shooting it forward — letting it shoot itself — you will defeat the sole purpose of the swing, which is to make it first accumulate power. You will do this with such swinging because the moment you exert undue strength you cause muscles to stiffen, and stiff, rigid muscles transmit their stiffness to the club. The club then "goes dead," and it merely slaps the ball instead of swinging smoothly and uninterruptedly through the ball. That makes the ball give you the impression you have clouted a hunk of frozen cement; the "dead" action of the club can easily be so pronounced as to cause a noticeable vibration, and stinging effect, in your fingers. It is smoothness of action, with strength and physical power in restraint, that enables the clubhead to compress the ball, so that compression can make the ball go. Therefore, swing up to your capacity to swing smoothly, and watch your golf improve.

Hockey Has Enjoyed Prosperous Season

"HOCKEY is today the most popular sport in Boston during the winter," said Mr. Costo today. "The tremendous crowds which have stormed the Boston Garden to see the Bruins play, leave no argument on this point.

"The Bruins have sold out the Garden for almost every game This means a crowd of 14,000 persons and box office receipts of $23,000 for each "College hockey has also had a successful season. The Harvard - Yale tilt of last Saturday played to a capacity crowd.

"The Bruins have the greatest hockey team in the world which is the answer for the remarkable interest in hockey in Boston and throughout New England When the local team goes roaring into the Stanley Cup series, one will require the assitance of a shoe horn to jam one's way into the Garden.

"Hockey is the fastest game in the world. It packs more thrills into five minutes than one gets in most other lines of athletic effort in an hour.

"It is a hard, crashing pastime for the players. They must be in superb physical condition to keep going at the terrific pace required. They also must be hardened to stand up under the heavy punishment they are subjected to when in action.

"I have seen few pro boxers take as much punishment as Eddie Shore of the Bruins does during a hectic skirmish on the ice. Eddie keeps coming on even after some wild sival has clipped him on the chin with a hockey stick. And they say there is more of a kick behind a sock from a hockey stick than from one delivered by a fist protected by a five-ounce glove

Jack Conway

Adams Pioneer in Pro Hockey Game

"CHARLES F. ADAMS was the pioneer in the pro hockey game in Boston He launched a team at the Arena when the Doubting Thomases declared the sport would never go here. During the first year of his venture, Adams lost $90,000, but refused to toss in the towel. He came back for more.

"The fans, who had been accustomed to seeing amateur teams rough house each other on the ice, finally became educated to the pro game. They began to realize they were at last seeing real hockey Incidentally Adams also got together a fine team which started winning.

"The amateur game lost ground as the pro pastime became better understood

"Unlike most trail blazers Adams did not turn over his club to somebody else But he sits in the driver's seat today, as his team occupies a position on top of the hockey world, and the turnstiles are clicking merrily.

"Nick Flatley tells me that Adams, who has been ill, will occupy his box at the Stanley Cup games. Everybody will be glad to know the owner of the Bruins will be able to see his great hockey combination in action.

Hockey Is Popular With the Ladies

"THOUSANDS of women have attended the hockey games at the Boston Garden This is one of the reasons why the gate receipts have run so high. The boy friend now takes the girl friend to a hockey game each week. When the ladies got the ballot, they also discovered they possessed a keen interest in athletics.

"The presence of the ladies at hockey and other athletic events have added color to the events and has tended to eliminate unnecessary coarseness

"To the promoter it means he now sells two tickets where he formerly only sold one."

Nantucket Five Wins Championship

The Massachusetts Nautical School, "Nantucket," won the Service League basketball championship from the Chelsea Naval Hospital five, 29-28, in the hardest played game of the season.

The hospital fought a hard battle but the schoolship men were not to be denied the victory which they had been striving to win from the hospital for two years.

STAR OF SIMMONS COLLEGE FIVE

The Simmons College basketball team has set up a record that stands out among the girl hoop teams of the state. Much of the success of the club can be laid to the sterling performances of Ellen Wood. This youthful star is one of the finest "shots" playing the court game.

YALE CREW AT HOUSATONIC

New Haven, March 13—Yale's varsity crews moved to their permanent headquarters at Derby on the Housatonic The boats since the opening of outdoor practice have been rowing daily on the New Haven harbor, but the weather has been so favorable Coach Leader shifted and the first practice was held at Derby.

Rowing will continue at Derby from now until after the 27th or when the final move to Gales Ferry, on the Thames, will be made prior to the Harvard regatta.

The three crews were relatively the same as heretofore when they took to the water. The first boat had the same men rowing, but there have been changes in the seating. Bob Goodale, sophomore who has been rowing at No. 2, was not there in practice.

Otherwise the boat remained unchanged, with Woody Tappen still at stroke.

The boat stroked by Art Palmer last year's varsity stroke, was again the second crew, after being listed as third boat for almost two weeks. It was said by the crew authorities that this eight had always been the second ranking combination, although the now third boat defeated it in a race the first or second day outside.

Jumbo Hurlers Rounding Into Shape

The Tufts battery men continue to bear down in the practice sessions and are rounding into mid-season form. The veterans Parkhurst and Adams appear to have the edge on the rest of the candidates and are showing plenty of stuff

Both feel ready to step into the box and toil a full nine innings Coach Nash is especially pleased with the improved control which both men are showing Lack of this all important part of a hurlers repertoire was one of the Jumbo hurlers glaring weaknesses last season, but a season's experience seems to have stood these two in good stead and they appear ready to start a successful season.

Lefty Hatch and Charlie Haber, two newcomers, look as though they had the stuff to stick around and perhaps gain a berth with the first string hurlers.

These two are left handers and have the control and ability to come through if they continue at their present pace Hatch, former Winchester all-scholastic pitcher, seems to be the further advanced of the two.

This may be explained by Haber's late appearance due to basketball duties

Nash May Shift Charlie Haber to Outfield

Coach Nash stated that with the wealth of pitching material available that he would possibly place Haber in the outfield to gain the offensive power of the rugged left-handers heavy atticking. He is, however, taking no chances and is grooming Haber to take his turn on the mound if necessary.

If Hatch comes through as is expected, Haber will probably see little service on the slab this year

Chet Story and Red Blethrens, by right handers, are an unknown quantity as yet. Story turned in a good performance against New Hampshire last year in his only full game, holding the Granite Staters to six scattered singles

His lack of control keeps him from breaking into the regular lineup. He may overcome this and take his regular turn on the mound.

Butters was on last year's squad but failed to make the grade and may be used some this year He has all the necessary qualifications for a successful pitcher and their happy faculty of making them "to good." If the big boy from the Canal Zone can overcome this and work the corners he may break into the regular lineup.

Catching Problem Is Still Unsolved

The catching problem still is unsolved and may necessitate moving the diminutive and loquacious Ockert into the lineup as a second string receiver. The Attleboro star the team's leading stricker, can don the pad, if necessary and may relieve Harry Arlanson as a part-time backstop.

Dick Phelan, former Holy Cross backstop, continues to work with the receivers and is giving the newcomers the advantage of his catching experience

OUTFIELDERS REPORT TO DUFFY

A COUPLE of dozen outfielders will report to Coach Hugh Duffy at the Commonwealth Armory this afternoon, bringing the Boston College baseball squad to its full total.

The batterymen and infielders are about to enter their second week of practice and their ranks have already been filed down to 35 members

The starting date for the B. C. diamond campaign comes on the 19th of April As far as can be ascertained, the candidates that report today will be shooting at nothing higher than a place on the bench with a chance of working into a ball game every now and then.

The outer terrain seems occupied by the presence of three veterans, Johnny Temple, Frank Reagan and J. Weston Shea. No doubt there'll be some very worthy material in today's reporting baton, but theres nobody listed among the outsiders who seems capable of breaking up the present trio of fly chasers.

Ricci Looking Forward to Permanent Berth

Al Ricci will be one of the most prominent in the turnout. Ricci started in the outer garden against Georgetown a year ago He seemed capable of making the grade as a hitter but his fielding didn't come up to Hoyle and he was removed after letting a couple trickle through his legs

Joe Shea of Hyde Park is another fine prospect. Shea can field and has the stuff to make good if he gets a chance. Johnny Marr, hard hitting left-hander, will take a crack at making a baseball letter

Bert Gleason and Joe Kelley, sophomore football stars, will make an effort to connect with the varsity nine just as they did last fall with Joe McKenney's eleven.

These boys have no right to be discouraged because the outfield seems inhabited before they even start. There'll be some shifting in the B. C. team before long and all three outfielders at present started their diamond careers as members of the infields on their high school ball clubs.

The first day that the infield men were called out Coach Duffy could find but one candidate for shortstop. Andy Spognardi was so far ahead of all the rest and so sure of his position that all opposition lost heart

Chamber Would Have No Loopholes in No Parking Law

A no-parking rule if adopted for the business district, must go the whole distance, according to a bulletin issued by the civic bureau of the Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Without taking a stand either for or against the proposed rule, the bureau points out that the rule "should not be honeycombed with exceptions 'to transact business' or 'for live parking.' Otherwise it is likely to be a joke. To be workable, 'no-parking' should mean what it does in Chicago: "'Passenger vehicles may not stop for any purpose except to load and unload passengers, and then not longer than three minutes.'"

TRY TO COMPEL BLACKMER TO RETURN TO U. S.

Washington, March 13 (AP)—Attiss Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, Government counsel in the protracted oil cases, today in a petition to the Supreme Court asked the high tribunal to review the authority of the Government to compel Harry M. Blackmer, now abroad and sought as a witness, to return to this country.

Referring to proceedings which have resulted in securities valued at $100,000 belonging to Blackmer being seized by the marshal here, the petition declared "it is a matter of grave importance to the administration of justice and the trial of criminal cases that the right of the United States to compel a citizen to return to the United States and give testimony on behalf of the Government in a criminal case should be promptly recognized.

Blackmer has been residing abroad several years and has refused to return to the United States.

is supposed that the wool when shorn will pay the debt.

This writer, having tried raising Angora goats, can testify that that isn't a certainty.

Grain men believe that the only hope of avoiding disaster, when the July wheat comes on top of the present storage, lies in the possibility of a serious world crop shortage.

Winter acreage this year shows 2 per cent increase. With government advertising its intention to buy above the market, sowing of spring wheat probably will show a great increase.

Barring government miracles, it looks as though nothing but a bad crop failure could prevent disaster about July 1.

The amount actually bought by the government, about 40,000,000 bushels thus far, can make no great difference. If the government sold it for 10 cents a bushel to get rid of it Uncle Sam's loss would be "small change."

The possible effect on farmers, on general prices of wheat and on business, is the serious question.

The attempt of the government, and the earnest desire of President Hoover to help the farmers, are in every way praiseworthy.

Government finds no difficulty helping the bankers, other financial institutions and even individual stock speculations, through the Federal Reserve.

When money is needed, the Federal Reserve Bank prints it, lends it to banks, on commercial paper, at a reasonable rate, and the banks make whatever they can by re-lending.

Helping the financiers, the government understands, but helping farmers by buying their wheat, goats, hair, etc., when they can't sell to anybody else, is something new.

The grain elevators are full now. On July 1, when the winter wheat crop comes, what will be done with it?

Government might say, "Go ahead and sell it for whatever you can get, abroad, and I will pay what you lose."

But that would be dumping, and Europe probably would not allow it.

Britain would not let Canada's wheat farmers be ruined by United States dumping.

On July 1 this country will have 250,000,000 bushels of wheat "carry over" from 1928 to 1929.

That is 50 per cent more than a year's normal export.

The government may have a plan that will take care of 250,000,000 bushels "carry over," plus the winter wheat crop, when July 1 comes, but the plan has not been published.

Those familiar with wheat and other grain markets remember that Patten and others were indicted for attempting to do so secretly what the government is now doing openly. They wonder what the government solution of the problem will be and they worry about it.

We produce more wheat than we can use. We must sell it abroad sooner or later.

The whole world knows that we are buying and storing artificially, and knows also that, barring miracles, it should be able to buy American wheat at its own price for the next two or three years.

What will be the effect of that situation?

This is a good deal about wheat. But what is mere discussion today may be a serious part of the American problem next July, and cause the problems of our little statesmen, sent to England, to be current dirys and wets, to seem unimportant.

The question does not interest wheat growers, buyers, dealers and speculators only.

It interests every American, every man in and out of a job, every man in business.

It requires wise handling.

It puts upon President Hoover's shoulders as serious a responsibility as any President has ever borne, outside of war time.

Daring Story of Eternal Love Triangle

Ardeth Carroll, beauty, lives in the drab home of her Aunt Stella. Neil Burke, downstairs, claims Ardeth as his. She is uncertain. She yearns for a fuller life. She quarrels with her cousin, Bet, whose room she shares. Ardeth sees the man of her dreams, Ken Gleason. Neil is furiously jealous. Jeannette Parker, society girl, plans to use Ardeth in a scheme for revenge. She opens a shop and engages Ardeth to run it.

CHAPTER 8

"NEIL!" Ardeth cried sharply, "you're hurting me!"

He relaxed his grip but did not free her. "What's this Bet's been telling me?" he got out between his teeth. "That you've quit the store—that you're going in with that society snob—"

"Of course Bet would talk about my business!" Ardeth answered coldly. "It's my own affair if I try to better my position—"

"Better your position—hah!" His tone was bitter. "Getting in with the big and rich! Letting them make a fool of you—"

The slender body in his clasp became convulsed.

"Let me go! You have no right to do this, Neil! You're jealous—that's what's the matter! If a man doesn't wear a flannel shirt and dirty overalls you think he's no good—"

"Jealous! Yes—I am! I'm jealous of you—you've got me crazy about you! And don't you suppose I see what's going on? You're changing—I'm not good enough for you any more. I'm not a rah-rah boy with sleek hair who goes horseback riding in the park—"

"Ah! I thought that was the trouble!" She had stopped struggling. She was very still and quiet.

He dropped his arms heavily to his sides and she could feel his wretched eyes upon her through the thick light.

Such a slight young thing she was to set his pulses hammering like this. To fill him with this passion of desire. . . .

"God . . . I wish I could hate you!" he said huskily. "I'd rather hate you than to be so crazy about you. I'm miserable when I'm away from you—and when I see you—I'm worse—"

"Oh, Neil——" she put a gentle hand on his arm. "Can't we ever meet any more without quarreling? We never used to be like this—"

He caught at her hand. "It's because I'm will about you, Ardeth. Sometimes all right. I can't sleep thinking about you. You love me, don't you? Let's get married—now. This week. I got a raise last month and we can manage fine. We can take that flat above Bill Henderson's. Honey—please—"

She shoved him away almost wildly. "No, Neil! Oh—can't you see? Get married and—and live like—like that!" In the dark her hand flung at the dark stair well. "A flat. . . A roast every Sunday so it will last until Tuesday. Wondering if we can manage a show and still pay the instalments on the furniture. And after a while—we'd be quarreling like Aunt Stella. They all do——"

"If you loved me you wouldn't stop to pick on those things," he said, hotly. "You're just looking them an excuse"— Then, warned by her quick motion toward the stairs. "Oh, all right—let's forget it for now. We're both on edge, I guess. Will you come on down after dinner, Granny misses you, Ardeth. She was asking about you just now."

She promised with secret reluctance. The atmosphere of the Burke flat was, if anything, more depressing than that of the Harrison.

Upstairs Bet's spite—Fan and Paul's quarreling—Aunt Stel's scolding—these at least provided vitality, a sort of combative life. But down here there was quiet—sullen quiet. Here was bitterness and defeat.

When she came down after dinner Mr. Burke had already left for one of his political meetings. Neil sat with his grandmother in the kitchen.

In childhood Ardeth had run in here often after school, rather than go upstairs and face Aunt Stella's nagging. She and Neil had popped corn over the stove while they listened to the old woman's rambling tales—a weird mixture of folklore and superstitions which

6 BISHOPS WILL SEE SLATTERY FUNERAL

Episcopal Leader to Be Buried Saturday From Historic Trinity Church

Six bishops and many other notables will attend the public funeral in historic Trinity Church, Saturday, of the Right Rev. Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The services will begin at 10:30, and among the bishops present will be: John T. Dallas of New Hampshire, Thomas F. Davies of Western Massachusetts, J. DeWolf Berry of Rhode Island, Edward C. Atcheson of Connecticut, Samuel G. Babcock, and Samuel B. Booth of Vermont

The bishop's sudden death from heart failure after a very brief illness at his home at 175 Beacon st., brought to a close a devoted and brilliant career. Tributes to his memory were voiced by many today.

Born in Pittsburgh, Pa., Bishop Slattery was in his 63d year. He had been in Boston since 1921 when he was appointed bishop coadjutor succeeding Bishop William Lawrence in 1927. Besides being noted as a preacher Bishop Slattery won success as an author.

Although tired from the pressure of duties in his own diocese, Bishop Slattery went to Providence last Thursday to conduct the noon-day Lenten service at Grace Episcopal Church for his brother-in-law, the Rev Dr. William Appleton Lawrence.

CANCELLED ENGAGEMENTS

After the Friday noon service he returned to Boston, and arriving home, complained of not feeling well. On Saturday, feeling worse and having three appointments for Sunday to preach, he telephoned to the Diocesan House on Joy st. to cancel the engagements, as he feared he had an attack of grippe.

He had promised to go to Toronto, Can., to preach there in St. Paul's Church on Tuesday noon, but on Sunday he telegraphed, cancelling that engagement.

The bishop had been attended by Drs. George Denney and D. Channing Prothingham. To them and others about him, his condition seemed to give no cause for alarm. The heart attack came on suddenly.

Mrs. Slattery, who was Miss Sarah Lawrence, daughter of Bishop Lawrence, was with her husband when the end came. There are no children.

With the death of Bishop Slattery the affairs of the Massachusetts diocese will now be in the hands of the Rt. Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Babcock, suffragan bishop, until a new bishop is elected.

Bishop Babcock was in poor health and has been convalescing from injuries he received when he was struck by an automobile several weeks ago His life was despaired of, but after a long fight he has recently returned to light duties at his office.

Glowing tributes to Bishop Slattery and keen sorrow over his sudden death were expressed on all sides today by officials of the State, city and of all denominations.

Maid Tells Conflicting Tale of Wandering to Cambridge and South Boston

Sought 12 hours by Greater Boston police, Barbara Dutton, two, and her 16-year-old nursemaid, Dorothy Stewart, were returned at 5 o'clock this morning to the Dutton home, 100 Longwood ave., Brookline, by a male motorist, who stopped his car only long enough to allow them to alight.

Miss Stewart was later questioned by Brookline police and then taken to the headquarters of the Bethesda Society on Mt. Vernon st., Beacon Hill, by workers of that organization.

The nursemaid and the daughter of Henry R. Dutton, manager of Boston City Club, failed to return from a walk yesterday afternoon. Police feared that the baby had been kidnaped.

The nursemaid told several conflicting stories of her whereabouts during the night. The baby told only one

FIND CARRIAGE.

The baby carriage in which Barbara was being wheeled by the Stewart girl, a Scandinavian, when they left the Dutton home yesterday, was found abandoned in Cambridge after Brookline police had driven the nursemaid over a route she said she had taken

The girl told police that shortly after she started out to give Barbara her airing, she became lost and eventually found herself in North Cambridge

With darkness, she said, she took the baby from her carriage and entered a parked automobile. Barbara slept and she rested, the nursemaid declared.

After a time they left the car and walked some more. Part of the time the baby walked and part of the time she carried her, the girl said.

PICKED UP IN SOUTH BOSTON.

They reached North Station and eventually found their way to South Boston, where a "strange man" asked them to ride and drove them home The girl said she could not remember the man's name nor the make of his automobile, but that she promised to call him on the telephone today.

Barbara apparently had been fed. She was not harmed and seemed little the worse for her experience.

The mother of the child collapsed at her home during the night and was reported in a serious condition. Although she rested over the safety of Barbara, Mrs. Dutton was ordered back to bed immediately.

The disappearance of the child created great excitement Private detectives were hired by Dutton to take up the search when the nursemaid failed to return home last night Supt. Crowley of the Boston police took personal charge of the search in Boston and sent out special squads of officers.

The Stewart girl is the daughter of Mrs. Jessie Low of Henry st., Brookline.

Mr. and Mrs. Dutton engaged her more than a week ago, through the Bethesda Society, a relief organization, with headquarters at 31 Mount Vernon st. She is to be returned there, as there is no basis for any criminal charge against her, police said.

Airplanes Drop in Price as Makers Begin Trade War

Airplanes tumbled—in price—today, the result, according to those acquainted with the situation, of a competitive war among manufacturers

The price cut brings some ships within the price range of automobiles.

One plane was cut from $3540 to $3900, another from $4000 to $2495, and a six-passenger cabin ship was reduced from $18,500 to $16,500. A sister ship to one that holds a world's non-stop refueling record now sells for $3950.

CIVIL LIBERTIES LEAGUE JOINS LIQUOR BUYER APPEAL FIGHT

CONFER WITH COUNSEL FOR FARRAR

Government Expects Supreme Court Decision Before Summer Recess

With an epochal decision in his liquor-buyer case pending before the United States Supreme Court, James F. Farrar of Watertown announced that his counsel, James A. Cresswell, would confer today with representatives of the Civil Liberties League over the issue involving him.

Julian Codman, at whose office the meeting will take place, will represent the league, it is understood.

The government, which has put the issue up to the highest court in the land, hopes for a decision before the summer recess, it was said today at Washington.

Besides the Farrar case, which was taken to Supreme Court from the local federal court, where Judge Morton quashed the indictment of the Watertown man, another buyer case is pending, involving the question of whether buyers "conspire" with bootleggers to violate the law.

Senator Sheppard, Democrat, of Texas, author of the 18th amendment, has a bill ready which will specifically make the buyer of liquor guilty of a felony, which he will offer if the court decides against the government.

FINDS 'GIMME WIVES' FAIL AT MARRIAGE

Dr. Taylor Tells 500 Women How to Make Success of Wedded Lives

By NANCY BREWSTER

More than 500 women who crowded the Georgian Room of the Hotel Statler today to hear how to make a "go" of marriage were told that its troubles and problems evolved around the woman of "emotional maturity."

The infantile, demanding, possessive, "gimme" type of woman can never make a success of marriage and she will always be unhappy, Dr. Marianna Taylor, psychiatrist at the New England Hospital for Women and Children, said, in her address before the Youth Conference of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

"Marriage is a three-base proposition," she continued. "To be real and lasting there must be the intellectual or mental congeniality, the emotional or spiritual congeniality and physical compatability. It cannot go ahead on one of the bases or two of the bases only."

Dr. Taylor deplored the lack of a sense of humor among women with their regard to the marital state. She didn't mean foolishness, or silliness, she said. She referred to the broad sense of humor, the lack of which leads to disastrous consequences in marriage.

The "Jehovah complex," the will for power and domination, was also condemned by the psychiatrist. Many women marry for this particular kind of self-expression, she said. And when she does, the marriage is bound to fail.

Love, she said, is more compex than women will admit. The age of fearless realism which has possessed the young collegiates has much for creditable comment, the doctor added.

CURLEY'S CIVIL SERVICE BILL GOES TO HOUSE

G. O. P. May Fight the Taking of Veto Power on Appointments From Commission

Mayor Curley today won the first round in his battle to take his appointments out of jurisdiction of the Civil Service Commission, when the legislative committee on civil service matters reported unanimously for the change.

The bill was reported out by Patrick J. Welsh of Boston.

Senator Joseph P. Buckley of Charlestown filed the petition and it has the approval of Elliot H. Goodwin, civil service head, and of Patrick McMahon, associate commissioner.

Despite the favorable report and the backing of at least two of the commission, a fight against the bill is expected soon. Several prominent Republicans in the legislature, notably Rep. Henry L. Shattuck, feel that the commission should hold on to their veto power.

It is understood that Chairman Goodwin and his associates feel that the duties of their board should be restricted to examining powers.

Opponents of the bill declare that the commission is trying to avoid trouble by the change. These opponents say that it is a function of the board to "safeguard Boston politics" by rejecting certain appointments.

ACCUSED MAN BLAMES TWIN

Whether Edwin F. Bliss of James st., Malden, has a twin brother, or is that twin himself, became an issue in Middlesex Probate Court at East Cambridge today when the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children opposed his adoption of James F. Walsh, 14.

Counsel for the society contended Bliss had a State prison record. This Bliss denied, asserting the picture on the record card was that of his twin brother, Edward.

He consented to have his fingerprints compared with those on the prison record and the case was temporarily halted while this was being done and a comparison made.

Bliss told Judge Arthur E. Beane he met the boy in Vermont, became attached to him and gave him a home, but that the boy's father "kidnaped" him a month ago. He said he was working as an engineer at $40 a week and had a four-room house.

His twin brother, he said, went to El Paso several years ago and he had not seen him since.

Too Much Excitement Not Healthful, Mrs. Goldstein Finds

Mrs. Samuel Goldstein washed the dishes, finished the family ironing, went to the dentist and had two teeth extracted, returned to her home at 171 Tremont st., Somerville, to find that her flat iron had set it on fire, pulled the alarm, and fainted—all inside of an hour and a half.

When she revived, 45 minutes later, she learned that damage amounting to $1200 had been done to her second-floor apartment, and in the suite above, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Meyer Swartz.

NORTH END BUS FAILS TO PAY

The bus line from Haymarket sq. to Commercial st. was discontinued for economic reasons, representatives of the North End Improvement Association were told at a hearing before the board of trustees of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company.

Chairman Harriman said that the trustees were opposed to discontinuing the line but were compelled to do so. Admitting that the city guarantees a 6 per cent dividend when a deficit occurs, but only for the first year he said that in subsequent years the company would have to raise the fare to meet the loss, which would meet with bitter disapproval.

Harriman promised further consideration of the matter and to make known the trustees' decision at an early date.

Big Prices Being Paid for "Crash Covers" of Air Mail

"Crash covers," the envelopes of mail carried by an air mail plane which crashed and either damaged the mail or delayed it as evidenced by the cancellations and appearance of the envelope, are coming to be highly valued, according to Frederick D. Markee of Needham, president of the Boston Air Mail Society, at a meeting at the Hotel Lenox.

The envelope, or just plain "cover," as it is called by collectors, of a letter carried by Colonial Air Mail Pilot Carey T. Pridham on his fatal northbound flight from the Newark airport when he crashed at Hartford a little over a month ago, went for $5 when Markee gave that amount to add it to his collection.

CONDEMN BOOK IN CAMBRIDGE

"Essays on Personalities of Antiquity," by Arthur Weigall, should be withdrawn from general circulation and "thrown into the dump forthwith," the Cambridge Public Library book committee voted by 2 to 1.

The book was adjudged objectionable largely because of the recurrence of the word "nigger" in one of the essays, entitled, "Exploits of a Nigger King."

The book was first brought to the attention of library officials three days ago, when Ray W. Guild, a colored attorney of 15 Jay st., Cambridge, sent them a letter in which he asked that the book be taken off the shelves.

PRIZE STUDENT MAY TAKE 'RAP'

The freshmen at Harvard who were caught exchanging problems in calculus will have their cases considered next Tuesday by the administrative board of the college. While all face expulsion if the board so decides, the tragic figure in the affair will be one of the best students, a "shark" at mathematics, who allowed his mates to see his work, to be "a good fellow."

Prof. Julian L. Coolidge, head of the mathematics department for freshmen, did not personally investigate the case, excepting after the information regarding the affair had been brought to him by one of his assistants.

The Important Reason

FATS and oils are not digested like starches or proteins, they must first be emulsified in the body before they can be utilized as nourishment.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

is pure cod-liver oil scientifically emulsified—prepared for easy and rapid digestion, just as Nature provides emulsified fat in milk.

This is the important reason why the cod-liver oil you take—should be emulsified—should be Scott's Emulsion.

Masked Women

Putting a mask of powder, cosmetics, lotions and creams upon your face may deceive you, but it deceives no one else. A masked complexion always shows, and the longer the mask is worn, the more the complexion is harmed. The idea of covering up pimples, blotches and facial blemishes with cosmetics and powders is a great blunder. Instead of masking your complexion, purify it with Cadum Ointment. You simply put a little Cadum Ointment on the affected spots when you retire, and while you sleep the healing process goes on. In short order the pimples and blemishes should be gone, and the natural beauty of your face restored. No complexion is so beautiful as the natural, and no woman with a masked complexion can ever hope to be so attractive as the woman whose skin is made healthy and clear by Cadum Ointment, a French preparation, made in this country from the original formula. A nightly massage with one part Cold Cream and one part Cadum Ointment, keeps the skin in fine condition.

Much suffering from skin troubles may be avoided by the timely use of this wonderful remedy. It stops the itching at once and is very soothing and healing, wherever the skin is irritated or inflamed. Cadum Ointment is good for eczema, pimples, blotches, chafing, rash, ringworm, cuts, insect bites, sores, cold-sores, tetter etc.

Restoration of Civil Service Is Urged So Citizens Can Get Hospital Jobs

A protest against the employment of non-citizens by the State Department of Mental Diseases was filed today by Gov. Allen by H. M. Comerford, secretary and business agent of Engineers' Local Union No. 283, Boston.

Comerford charged that since It was freed from civil service a few years ago the department, of which Dr. George M. Kline is commissioner, has "run wild"

"We have evidence that men working as engineers have been hired by this department from employment offices where they were compelled to pay for the position secured," he stated.

"We also know that the chief engineer at Danvers State Hospital told an engineer seeking a first assistant engineer position there that they were running an advertisement in Power for an engineer and that he wanted to wait until he heard from the advertisement before hiring anyone."

Comerford added:

"In the past the commissioner has been very arrogant and unfair in many of his dealings with those who approached him and we feel that there is no cause for us to get in touch with him knowing as we do what his attitude would be when approached on matters of this kind."

The new Metropolitan Hospital at Wa tham was named as one of the institutions employing aliens despite unemployment among citizens.

Comerford asked why the mental disease department is exempt from civil service regulation and requested the governor to clear up the "unwarranted situation."

SEES NO FEAR OF POLLUTION

Testifying for Massachusetts, Prof Earl Phelps, sanitary engineer of Columbia University, stated that the diversion of the flood waters of the Ware and Swift rivers from the Connecticut river to the Metropolitan water system would have no appreciable effect, so far as the pollution of the Connecticut river is concerned.

The professor was a witness in the litigation brought by the State of Connecticut to prevent diversion of the flood waters of these two rivers, which are tributaries of the Connecticut

He agrees with Prof Charles Winslow, sanitary engineer of Yale University, who testified for the State of Connecticut

Both declared that the effect of the diversion, so far as the public health of Hartford and other cities and towns along the Connecticut is concerned, would be utterly negligible

HARVARD TELLS OF NEW PLANET JUST FOUND

Discovery From Arizona of a Body Larger Than Earth Verifies Lowell Theory

By Associated Press

Prof Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard Observatory, today announced receipt of word from the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., of the discovery there of the ninth major planet of the Solar system

The planet, as yet unnamed, is beyond Neptune and is probably larger than the earth but smaller than Uranus

Dr. Shapley hailed the discovery as one of the most important in astronomy since that of Neptune in 1846.

The years of research which led to the definite determination of the existence of the trans-Neptune body have confirmed the belief of the late Percival Lowell, brother of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard, that such a planet existed Dr. Shapley said

The telegram which was received by the observatory today reads:

"Systematic research begun years ago, supplementing Lowell's investigation for a trans-Neptunian planet, has revealed an object which for seven weeks has in pate of motion and path consistently conformed to trans-Neptunian path at the approximate distance he assigned, fifteenth magnitude.

"Position March 21 at three hours Greenich mean time was seven seconds of time west from Delta Geminorum, agreeing with Lowell's predicted longitude."

Dr. Shapley said the distance of this new planet beyond Neptune had not been definitely computed and neither had its orbit been calculated, as far as he knew

The known planets until today were, in order of their remoteness from the sun, Mercury, Venus, the Earth, Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune.

Mercury is only 28,568,000 miles from the sun at its nearest approach, while Neptune is calculated to be 2,760,000,000 miles away. Neptune's passage around the sun requires 156 years

Neptune was discovered mathematically much in the same way as the existence of the new planet was first supposed because of certain peculiarities in the orbit of Neptune. Lowell's observations of the phenomena led him to deduce the existence of another planet beyond Neptune

Like Neptune, the new body is invisible to the naked eye

BELASCO'S 'THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST' COMING TO SOUND SCREEN

NEW MUSIC FOR MOVIE OPERETTA

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.

NEW YORK, March 13—Did you ever know that Dorothy Mackaill can sing? Like many of the stars of the silent drama, Dot saw no reason why she should make this talent known, until the talkies made such a talent a valuable asset. Now that she has had an audition by the First National experts, she has been given the leading role in "The Girl of the Golden West." Audition is a good word, isn't it?

"The Girl of the Golden West" has been purchased from David Belasco, but Puccini's music is not obtainable owing to the fact that the Puccini estate has not been settled. However, as we stated before, why worry with Oscar Straus, Jerome Kern and Sigmund Romberg on Warner Bros. there papers? There ought to be as fine a musical score written as ever appeared on a pad.

Loucila O. Parsons

"The Girl of the Golden West" when it was headlined by the Metropolitan Opera Co. as the great American opera

John Francis Dillon will direct and it looks as if Sidney Blackmer will play the role of Johnson, the road agent. Sidney is in Hollywood with Leonore Ulric who is known to their close friends as Miss Ulric's husband Yep, they are married. Lenore even wears a ring

THAT dynamic, attractive little person, Lily Damita, is continuing to be one of the outstanding figures in theatrical life in New York. Miss Damita expects to go to Europe on a holiday as soon as she finishes her play May 1. But if Samuel Goldwyn has his way she will be in Hollywood July 1, for Lily is United Artists' choice for Al Jolson's leading lady in "Sons o' Guns." You see, it is in "Son o' Guns" that Miss Damita has achieved her great success on Broadway. Seems reasonable that she will play opposite Al in his next picture. I understand that Ray Goetz, well known producer, is on the coast at the moment trying to negotiate with Samuel Goldwyn for a talkie for Lily.

"FLYING HIGH," the current George White Scandal, has more funny lines than any musical comedy I have seen in the last 10 years. It is so fast moving and so full of pertinent gags that the theater was simply in an uproar. I am told that although the play will probably be on Broadway for a year or two, Ed die Cantor wired to know the chances of buying it for a talkie Maybe Bert Lahr will want to bring it into the movies himself

LIFE OF MOVIE STAR EASY

NOT many years ago, Betty Compson admitted that "the life of a motion picture star is not a hard one." Recently Miss Compson made a new statement She said: "The life of the modern motion picture star is now very difficult, due to talking pictures. However, I like my present work better today than ever before because it is more difficult."

Miss Compson's statement is not based on a change of mind It is based on an interval spent in the film industry. The main points out her present life as an example

"I work hard all day long and study my lines at night for the following day. And because I did not finish my last picture, 'The Great Gabbo' until the very last day I started my next one, I had no chance to assemble my wardrobe. So I was fitted in clothes and costumes when I arrived at the studio in the mornings, during lunch hours and before I left in the evening"

"The Great Gabbo," was directed by her husband, James Cruze, and is now showing at the Modern, Beacon and Egyptian.

LEIBER GREAT IN ROLE OF SHYLOCK

CONCERNING the character of Shylock, there is varying theory and opinion. But of the acting of that great role by Fritz Leiber, there can be but one thought—that Mr. Leiber delivers a powerful performance. "The Merchant of Venice" drew another large and appiausively appreciative audience to the Wilbur last night; the great drama was superbly produced and acted, and thus there was added another red letter date to the achievements in Boston of Mr. Leiber's company from Chicago.

It is particularly satisfying to note the continuing interest and enthusiasm of Wilbur patrons over these Shakespearean opportunities. "The Merchant" was as enjoyable as those that preceded it; and Mr. Leiber's Shylock stands out as something long to remember.

Shylock is often done as a fiend, or again as an old man cheated by fate. But Mr. Leiber breaks away from such treatments; in truth, he breaks his own rule Apparently, in general, his attitude toward the Bard of Avon is, that the characters must be humanized, must be brought down from classic niche to the levels of life. But in dealing with the central figure in "The Merchant," Mr. Leiber strikes off to the wonted conception of olden time: Shylock is made a bloodthirsty villain, after the type that probably would most have appealed to an audience for laughter or other emotion, in Queen Elizabeth's day. Evidently, Mr. Leiber believes that this characterization of his is the one that is most effective for the sake of the entire drama. He does not make Shylock typical, but rather a single, striking character of great craftiness and much cruelty.

Other roles in the hands of notably good players, especially Hart Jenks, as Bassanio, Robert Allen as Lorenzo, John Forest as Tubal, John Burke as Antonio, Vera Allen as Portia, Marie Carroll as Jessica and Virginia Bronson as Nerissa.

Yesterday afternoon, the play was "As You Like It." This, too, was a stirring performance clear through, with Mr. Leiber making further proof of the versatility of his genius.

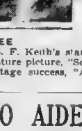
CARUSO AIDED PRIMA DONNA

TO have been started on her career as a singer by no less a person than the late Enrico Caruso is one of the girlhood memories of Evelyn Herbert, brilliant prima donna of "The New Moon," now meeting with emphatic favor at the Shubert Mason Herbert was 12 when, with her parents she attended a charity affair at the Waldorf - Astoria in New York. Stars of the dramatic and operatic stage had contributed dolls dressed in their favorite roles to be auctioned off, and little Evelyn won a doll contributed by Caruso and dressed as he was in his role of Pagliacci.



Evelyn Herbert

Miss Herbert, who had already been taking singing lessons, decided to write to the great tenor to tell him of her good fortune She received a letter in reply, inviting her to call on him

Her mother took her to see Caruso, who asked to hear her sing—and to his own accompaniment on the piano. He was much impressed by the child's voice, and he outlined a course of study for her which she followed for six years At the end of that time, Caruso believed Evelyn to be ready for prima donna roles and he introduced her to Cantanini, the managing director of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. She was engaged for light prima donna roles, among them Mimi in "La Boheme." She visited Boston with the organization and sang that role in this city

Caruso then suggested two years of study in Italy to perfect herself for heavy operatic roles. but this Herbert could not see her way clear to "waste" the time or the money, and decided to go into the lighter form of musical productions. Since then she sang the prima donna roles in "The Love Song," "Princess Flavia" "My Maryland" "The Red Robe" and for the last 20 months in "The New Moon."

HARVARD GAVE TRAINING AS THESPIAN

AS a Hasty Puddington thespian in his Harvard days, Robert Middlemass enacted various roles in the college theatricals as well as in the Shakespearean revivals and Harvard Dramatic Club productions And now Mr. Middlemass is renewing acquaintances of his college days when he is not on the stage at the Tremont as Mr. Cohan's policeman in "Gambling."

Robert Middlemass

Middlemass was born in New Britain, Conn., and was graduated from Harvard in 1909. At Harvard his associates were Heywood Broun, Robert Benchley, David Carb, Earl Derr Biggers, Edward Sheldon, Ernest I. Gruening, Kenneth MacGowan and Prof. George Pierce Baker. His first professional appearance was at the old Castle Square Theater, just after graduating from college.

His New York engagements include "The Bludgeon," "Back Home," "Buddies," "Up the Ladder," "The Butter and Egg Man," "The Clutching Claw" and "Gang War." He has played in vaudeville with Kathryn Kidder, and in pictures with Alice Joyce, Percy Marmont and Elaine Hammerstein.

Middlemass has written vaudeville sketches—including "The Valiant"—and appeared in many of them. He has also written a few plays, and hope and fear survives that some day one of them will be produced. And that is the ultimate desire that he aspires to—to appear before Professor Copeland's classes at Harvard and speak on "How It Feels to Be a Successful Playwright."

McCormack's Film Due in Boston This Month

Boston will be the third city in America to see and hear John McCormack in his first venture into talking films, "Song o' My Heart," the Fox-Movietone musical romance starring the celebrated Irish tenor, is scheduled to open at the Majestic on Monday night, March 24

From present indications the rest of the country will have to wait patiently until next fall, with the single exception of Hollywood. "Song o' My Heart" is slated to open on the West coast at Grauman's Chinese Theater some time in June, and also in London and Dublin during that month

Coming Events

"The Chocolate Soldier" will be the final attraction of the Victor Herbert Festival at the Majestic starting Monday. The engagement is for one week.

Walter Hampden, in a repertory of plays, including "Richelieu," "Cyrano" and "Hamlet" will take possession of the Wilbur on Monday, March 24.

BLONDE STAR MUST HAVE HER REST

"LEARN to relax."—This is the advice of one Catherine Dale Owen, who some think is the most beautiful blonde on the stage. She plays the heroine opposite Lawrence Tibbett in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Rogue Song," coming to Loew's State next week.

"The modern girl," she says, "indulges in out of door sport, gets tanned, sometimes dances all night, and so is put to far more physical exertion than her mother was.

"But this perpetual motion style of living is easy, if she learns one secret—relaxation.

"Brief rest periods do it—and an important thing is, when resting, to change to a pair of comfortable house slippers, for the feet stand the brunt of it all. On the set, between scenes, I always slip off my regular pumps and rest in comfortable soft slippers, and a few minutes between periods under the hot lights works wonders

Miss Owen plays a Russian princess in the new picture, a vivid drama of adventure and love in the Caucasus, directed by Lionel Barrymore. Tibbett, called the greatest living baritone, plays her lover, a swashbuckling singing bandit chief. He sings a number of special songs in the big production, which was filmed entirely in natural colors.

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning, and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic state.

Ask any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated potion that two ounces lasts a long time, and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded on special note. People who want to reduce a swollen toe joint or bunion should get a bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at once and, using it as directed, notice how quickly the pain will disappear and how the swelling will continue until the joint or bunion is reduced to normal.

ONE OF THREE SONS STAYED IN FRANCE

Mothers were the "second line of defense" in the World War, as in all wars. Now the Government is going to send to France, that they may view the last resting place of their hero sons, the Gold Star mothers of America, those mothers whose sons made the supreme sacrifice. Today the Boston Evening American presents the 15th in a series of biographical sketches of heroes who gave their lives in the war sketches made by the Gold Star mothers or widows themselves.

This Gold Star mother had three sons in the service, one of whom was killed in action.

The war sons of Mrs. Mary Sweeney of 532 East Seventh st., South Boston, were:

Matthew Joseph Sweeney, 24, killed near Vesux.

John Sweeney, 27 at the time of the war, enlisted in infantry in Arkansas and served 10 months in France with a Boston outfit

Richard Sweeney, 20 at time of war, enlisted in Pennsylvania and had sailing orders at the time of Armistice.

Matthew had finished a hitch with the National Guard, but promptly re-enlisted in the 26th Division when war was declared. He went over with an early detachment, and soon was made corporal

Matthew was born in New York, but came to Boston when 16. He was employed in the city printing department and was well known as an athlete. His hobbies were boxing and swimming.

"I'll be home soon, mother."

After the war, the mother had several visitors from boys in her son's outfit. A canteen worker for the Y. M. C. A. was especially fond of the young man and told his mother how Matthew often took charge of the canteen in the absence of others.

Tomorrow the Boston Evening American will tell of Frank Maffa, a young Italian boy who took an older brother's place.

PERIL IN RAIL DEAL—PERKINS

Montpelier, Vt., March 13 (AP)—The advantages and disadvantages of consolidation of New England railroads, as proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission, were discussed today at a meeting of the New England governor's committee on railroads, meeting at the State House.

T. N. Perkins, acting president of the Boston & Maine, said he saw grave danger in any plan whereby control of the New England roads might be reposed with outsiders.

Sir Henry Thornton of the Canadian National Railway discussed various plans, but refrained from expressing his preference.

Gov. John E. Weeks of Vermont was among those who said they did not see the necessity of consolidation

Today's was the sixth hearing conducted at New England state capitols. Two other hearings will be held at Boston.

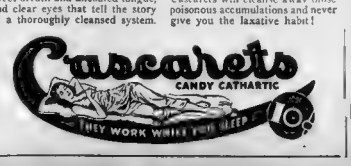
"They work while you sleep"

Everybody's bowels need help sometimes, and when they do just take a candy Cascaret

Cascarets always act, and they always act the same way—a thorough but gentle action that cleanses the whole thirty feet of bowels. Without discomfort, and without harmful after-effects. You feel all the better for the rest your system gets from a candy Cascaret!

Take one tonight. See how fine you'll feel in the morning—and for several mornings to come! A sweet breath and uncoated tongue, and clear eyes that tell the story of a thoroughly cleansed system.

And how pleasant to take! Candy Cascarets are made of cascara—which doctors have for years proclaimed one of the very best laxatives known to medicine—sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real lemon juice. Children just love them. So do grown-ups, for that matter. You eat them just like candy. They work while you sleep. Take one when you have a "sick headache"; or that sluggish feeling caused by poor elimination; whenever you feel that the liver and bowels are not functioning as they should. Cascarets will cleanse away those poisonous accumulations and never give you the laxative habit!



HUSTON, G. O. P. CHIEF, ADMITS LOBBYING

Washington, March 13 (AP) — Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National Committee, today informed the Senate lobby committee that the Tennessee River Improvement Association, of which he is a former president, had as its purpose the influencing of legislation and added that he thought it might properly be called a "lobby committee"

Huston, testifying for the second day on activities of the association in connection with Muscle Shoals legislation, denied, however, that it was a political organization, and named a number of prominent men who had cooperated in its work

Among those, he said, were Senator Brock, Democrat, Tennessee the late Senator Tyson of Tennessee, the late Senator Underwood of Alabama, former Senator Shields of Tennessee and E. B. Stahlman Nashville publisher

He asserted that all work done by the association was open and above board and said those participating in its efforts believed that the legislation they advocated was for the best interests of their section

The improvement association had urged acceptance of the bid of the American Cyanamid Co. for Muscle Shoals. A bill which would award the power project to the Cyanamid company is now pending in Congress

Daily Health Hint for Readers

THE training of a child cannot begin too young. Children have an instinct which tells them what is meant even before the words mean anything to them. Undesirable thoughts may be implanted in their brains unsuspected by the parents, and care must be exercised.

BEAUTY USES SEVERAL SHADES OF ROUGE

Important to Keep Watch Over the Results

By JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON
World Famous Beautician

THE more I delve into the varied uses reactions of rouge, both for the cheeks and the lips, the more I realize that there are no absolutely infallible rules governing its use.

The most important factor seems to be that a daily watch be kept over the results obtained. I have five different shades of rouge on my dressing table at present and two different mediums, dry and paste. And within a week I shall use every one of them.

Josephine Huddleston

Also, I have just recently discovered that the selection of a shade of rouge depends somewhat on whether it is the paste or the dry form.

Of course, we all have come to realize that there is a wide difference between the shades used for night and those that appear best in the daylight. But even I did not suspect until recently that there could be a vast difference between shades because of the difference between dry and paste rouge.

I've been experimenting and have found that dry rouge should be a little bit lighter and brighter than the shade used when the paste form is preferred. Also that brighter and lighter shades of rouge are more becoming to the average woman when she is wearing a very dark frock, although rouge of a deeper red tint is more attractive when clothing of lighter coloring is worn.

This latter suggestion is not so startling when we consider that colors are vitally important to beauty. The wrong shade of blue not only can but does make some complexions appear muddy and drab. The elimination of that color in favor of another shade of blue clears the skin, making it appear even more delicate and lovely than it actually is.

Then, too, without apparent reason, the color of the skin itself frequently changes within a few days. Sometimes this change is drastic and may last for several weeks or months. Again it is slight and lasts only for a day or two.

In any event it is necessary to have several shades of rouge, all of them along the same basic color, so that when one of those days when your make-up is off key comes along, you can remove the rouge just applied and try another slightly different tint.

It is well to at least hold up in front of you the frock you expect to wear after making up your face. Note the effect, and if your complexion is not as attractive as it usually is, change either your dress or your make-up.

If you expect to wear a hat that places your face slightly in shadow, a little brighter shade of rouge can be used than when your hat is of the "off the face" type. But, do not apply your rouge more heavily than usual unless you plan to keep the brimmed hat on during the entire length of time you are out or, upon removal, your make-up will be startlingly obvious.

Far more important than matching the lip-stick to the cheek rouge which, incidentally is very important, is that you use a shade that increases the whiteness of your teeth rather than giving them a yellowish tinge which frequently happens when the wrong shade is used.

No matter how fashionable a particular color of rouge for the cheeks and lips may be, it will not increase your beauty and charm if it makes your skin muddy and your teeth yellow. So, try to test out the color carefully before following a new mode.

The Chameleon Girl -:- -:- Drawn by Nell Brinkley

IT has been said that ladies, like variegated tulips, show that it is to their changes that they owe half their charm for Friend Adam. The race of man loves change He tires of even Beauty's face when he has learned the exact shape of her glossy eyebrow or if she never changed the way she does her hair.

Glorietta is a lady-wizard for change. But not a "skin-changer." The skin, the eyes, the hair, the pose, even, all that makes the girl, are the same. But the scenery shifts, rolls up, trundles away, sails upward into dim voids; other scenery rolls on, wings downward, shifts about and settles. In the confusion Glorietta's costume is shed, another takes its place, the lights go on and Glorietta is a rose of another color and appeal!

Ask her which she likes best! The wool and fur, the air with the color of the northern sun and glistening with floating diamond dust, the red apple eaten with a nutcrack hand, the cheeks to match the apple without the art of the rouge box, the air that stings in the lungs like a sparkling dry wine? Ask her which costume she likes best, which sport, which air, magic in its own way, she thinks best for the health of a fellow.

The free body, whose covered inches you could count: the hot sun browning one delicately like a perfect biscuit; the fierce but wonderful sun, whose color can come from cool gold, on one's primitive vertebrae, whose glow warms the mind into languor and content, an orange blossom in the hand and flowers banked on the sidewalks like vegetables, a blanket of color in every block—an armful for 50 cents for a beauty lover to float over.

And, being a changeable woman, capable of change, she will say that she likes to load her trunk and her costumes on an Overland Limited and have them both —turn about!

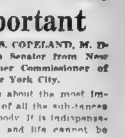
Water Most Important

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

WATER is about the most important of all the substances found in the body. It is indispensable to health and life cannot be sustained without it.

We take too much as a matter of course the many blessings bestowed upon us. For instance, how little we realize the immense importance to us of the bountiful and pure water supplies brought to the doors of great communities for our benefit. The great engineers have found the means to bring water miles and miles under the most efficient methods. The Roman water aqueducts of the ancients were not so wonderful as some of the immense modern aqueducts which bring water to some of our great cities.



Dr. Copeland

These great water supplies are guarded as never before. The region from which they come must be safeguarded from impurity of any sort. The springs and streams, the reservoirs and every inch of the territory over which the water comes are all under constant supervision. We derive the benefit.

The life processes of the body throw off poisons through the kidneys, bowels and skin. The kidneys are the chief agents of elimination.

The blood requires a continuous stream of water. If it does not get the right amount otherwise, it absorbs water from the intestinal and other tissues. In this way it receives poisons also. The bowels are left dry and constipated.

The body is composed of water. Of this two tenths is thrown off by the lungs in vapor, three-tenths in perspiration and five-tenths in the urine and feces, the latter being waste material from the bowels. Because of chemical changes in the body, additional water is produced so that at times a person passes out more than he takes in.

An adult person requires at least a quart of water daily. Now, of course, some water is taken in through food and drink. Today very generally the custom is to take a lot of water in drinking tea and coffee. But do not forget that drinking pure, cold, not ice-cold, water is one of the most beneficial habits one can have.

Water is the solvent of all the fluids of the body, as well as being an element in all the solid tissues. Perspiration, saliva, tears, blood, milk, and the gastric juices of digestion are composed almost entirely of water. Every hour and, much water is thrown off by the skin and the kidneys. The free drinking of water washes away the waste products and the solid matter of the body. It is quite probable that drinking much water prevents the formation of kidney stones.

If we want to live healthy, happy lives, we must partake of Nature's foods and drink. We must flush out the body with water lost through the function of elimination. It is necessary to do this before we begin to eat and drink much at the same meal. There is considerable misinformation of the food, and drinking too much water interferes with this process of digestion.

A Dish a Day

WITH spring lamb abundant and reasonable, the prudent homemaker is interested not only in the preparation of the roast itself, but in the clever use of the left-overs.

Lamb is one of the few meats that to me is unattractive when served lukewarm it should be piping hot or very cold. If cold, it should be accompanied with a piquant relish or nutmeg thin slices of white, rye or whole wheat bread, a crisp fruit or vegetable salad and a hot beverage.

Martha Lee

We are all familiar with minced lamb heated in well seasoned gravy and served on toast as the luncheon or breakfast dish, and probably also with cold roast lamb slices dipped in egg and crumbs and sauted quickly in butter. Or neat slices of roast lamb placed on a hot platter and covered with a piping hot gravy. This method of serving lamb is better than letting the meat simmer in the gravy itself.

For our day's recipe, I do want you to try these individual Lamb Pies.

INDIVIDUAL LAMB PIES
INGREDIENTS:
2 cups lamb, chopped or diced
1 cup potato, diced
¼ cup carrots, diced
½ cup green peas
2 cups lamb stock or gravy
1 small onion chopped
2 tbsps. catsup or chili sauce
3 tbsps. fat
Salt and pepper
Flour

METHOD:

Use left-over cooked lamb. Cube meat and bones, together with the onion in 2 tbsps. of fat. Add vegetables, which have either been left over or freshly cooked then thickened stock or gravy with seasonings.

Cook 10 minutes, or until meat is thoroughly heated. Pour mixture into individual baking dishes or casseroles. Cover top with pastry or biscuit dough and bake in a hot oven until dough is well done and light brown in color, about 20 to 25 minutes at 450 deg F. Biscuit dough will take somewhat longer to bake than pastry.

Serve pies hot in the same dishes in which they are baked.

Faithfully yours,
MARTHA LEE.

Girl Unafraid, a Serial

Granny more than half believed herself.

But now, as though she viewed it for the first time, she was aware of the disorder of the hopeless poverty of it all. The cluttered sink board; musty smell of cooking. The greasy feel of the oilcloth on the table.

She tried not to think of these things as she removed a pan and a cup from a chair and gingerly seated herself upon it.

Swathed in a gray shawl, Granny blinked up at her like a lizard in the sun.

"There, now, dearie, I know you'd be down! Don't you be grieved. I was tellin' the lad here, our pretty girl hasn't forgot us for all she's learnin', such fine ways an' airs such fine clothes. She knows where she belongs, that one. I told him—don't trouble in your heart."

Sudden hot anger nearly suffocated Ardeth. So afraid she would get away—that she would rise above them! Wanting to hold her back here in the ugliness and the graveness—

She forced a little laugh. She tried to turn the conversation. "Don't get angry. . . poor Neil—he couldn't help this ugly bare flat. Poor Granny, an old—how could she keep it tidy?

But there was a sort of angry dismay in her heart. Why did Neil sit there eating her up with his sombre eyes? Why did Granny reach over and smooth her skirt with that possessive air? She wanted to cry that they took too much for granted! Why should they think she was going to marry Neil?

She'd only been a youngster when she'd given him that absurd promise. She'd known no better—they shouldn't hold her to it!

Marry Neil . . . Be stuck here forever in the grey poverty? Oh, surely, life held more for her than that! Or else, why did the golden flame kindle within her at the glance of Ken Gleason's eye?

Ken . . . Just the thought of him could send a tingling warmth through her heart.

Then it was absurd—she told herself later, as she lay in her own dark room beside the heavily breathing Neil. Absurd that she should be thinking like this of a man to whom she had never spoken.

No, she had never spoken with her lips . . . but that long meeting their eyes . . . that strange hot leap of her own heart which had said he was no stranger.

Lying there, hands pressed hard over her pounding heart, she had the strange conviction once more that she was in the grasp of fate. That she was being hurried along at breathless pace.

Lovejoy -:- Beatrice Burton

CHAPTER 58

STEVE had taken a drawing room on the Pullman for her.

It was filled with flowers and there was a stack of the new magazines on one of the seats when Lovejoy stepped into it that night Sheila Nettles came with her as far as the door.

"Steve has Room A in the next car," she said, "and I have B. Well come back here for you as soon as the train starts and we'll all have dinner together."

Then she was gone, leaving a cloud of double-jasmine perfume in the air of the narrow corridor.

Lovejoy stood in the middle of the tiny green-plush room, looking at the mirrors and the washbowl and the stack of new magazines.

All at once she was frightened . . . Why was she here on this train without the baby? The baby was the most precious thing in the world and she couldn't leave him! —Why, she had been insane to think that she could start off like this without him—

The train gave a jerk. It seemed to shake itself all over the way a dog does when it comes out of the water. The station lights began to slide past the windows of the drawing room

Were on our way! Lovejoy and Steve! She was not alone any more! The long seat just inside the door had been to us!

Presently she heard the slamming of a heavy steel door, the sound of voices in the corridor and then a knock on her own door.

That's Steve' she thought.

"Just a second, Steve!" she called out and began to dash cold water on her tear-stained face

When she opened the door to him two minutes later she was carefully rouged and powdered once more.

"You've been crying," he said "Sheila told me you looked as if you were feeling blue, so I came right back to get you. We're going to have dinner in her room."

He stepped into the drawing room, closed the door behind him and took her in his arms. He kissed her long and ardently.

"If you only knew how I've worried about getting you on this train!" he said to her when he let her go at last. "If you only knew how I've held my breath—I've been afraid that you'd back out at the last minute!"

"I did, too!" Lovejoy assured him "But it was too late . . . The train had started!"

Tears sprang into her eyes again But she blinked them away and ran a powder puff across her reddened lids

"Let's go and find Sheila!" she said briskly. "I don't want to start crying again! I want to go through this thing with a stiff upper lip

"Just a minute!" He stopped her as she was opening the door "There is something for you! You'll need some money for tips and things on this train."

He took a small gold-mesh bag from his coat pocket. It was filled with folded bills and silver Its clasp was a big, flat sapphire

"It's lovely," Lovejoy faltered. But she failed to take it from him, all the same. . . . She knew that he was going to put a big sum of money into a Nevada bank for her. But this was different, somehow

"I hate to take money from you, though, Steve," she said quietly. "It makes me feel like a wife taking money from her husband . . . "That's true!" Steve laughed. "If you'll just keep on feeling that I'm your husband everything will be perfect"

They went into the next car laughing and talking with great cheerfulness

The porter had set up a table in Sheila's room. On it were glasses and cracked ice and a big leather case full of bottles

"I thought we'd have a cocktail or two before dinner," Steve said "You were right, Sheila about Lovejoy—I found her crying her eyes out."

"I know just how you feel, Lovey," Sheila answered with a laugh. "I cried all the way to Nevada when I went there for my divorce But I laughed all the way back, and I've been laughing ever since."

She surely did not look as if she ever had had a moment's unhappiness. Her big eyes sparkled with laughter and the corners of her lips had an upward tilt.

Can't Live Without Him

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I have been reading your letters to other young girls and I am sure you will help me.

I am 18 years of age and my boy friend is 23 He has been going with me for six months, steady. He is jealous, to some extent, if I go out with other boys. I have no desire ever to go with any one else, my parents think so much of him

He asked me if I wanted a diamond ring last Christmas I told him I did. On Christmas Day he gave me two other gifts, but not the ring. I found out he is carrying a ring with him, but he has never given it to me What is he waiting for? He loves me, and has told me this some day I would be his. I love him and couldn't live without him.

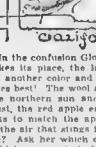
Please help me out. I thank you TROUBLED.

JUDGING by your letter, my dear, your friend has told you he loves you—has hinted that some day you and he will be married. But he has not actually proposed to you. It would seem that he is waiting to make quite sure you and he are really in love.

Nervousness in the Child

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

THERE are, I know, many children who do not receive enough attention from either parent, but many times I have seen a mother and child where the child would have less nervous, less inquisitive attention being always the center of attention if the mother did not ignored him or kept quiet with him occasionally.



Constance Cameron

"I live for my children," a mother told me once. And her idea of "living for them, of being a conscientious mother, was to talk to them incessantly.

She took the youngest, a four-year-old child, downtown on the street car with me one day and she prattled and talked every foot of the way. Her child asked questions, to be sure, as every normal child does, but she continued to talk questions when any normal child would have quit, just to be sure that mother wasn't thinking of anything but her Mother had taught her that that was a sure method of blocking attacks.

If your child asks a good many questions there are bound to be answers, but stop the questioning once in a while by asking him one in return If he says 'Why are we going to grandmother's today?' inquire of him 'Why do you think you are?' It is grandmother's birthday, and the child will delight in taking about it if you give him a chance. Further on twitter on that grandmother is eighty years old today and will be glad to see us, and she'll probably be waiting at the front window and so on, ad infinitum, your small person will probably soon be trotting along, vaguely hearing your voice but thinking of something else, if any.

Escorting Two Girls

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1—When one man walks with two girls, where does he walk, nearest the curb or between the two girls?

2—When one girl is with two men, how do they walk?

3—Is it proper for a man to buy his bride's wedding dress?

4—And should the bride buy the bridesmaids' dresses, or flowers?

Cambridge. E. T

HE walks on the side of the pavement nearest the curb. It is very poor form for him to walk between the girls.

2—One man walks on the outside and one on the inside. The girl between them.

3—No! This should never be done, under any circumstances.

4—The bride, or her parents, buy the flowers for the bridesmaids. It is customary for the attendants to buy their own attire, all of the details, too, and these are bought according to the bride's suggestions and plans. Only occasionally, when the bride is very rich and very generous, does she buy or help buying the attires of her attendants

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN

How should one express one's sympathy to a friend whose uncle has just passed away?

I am a girl in my teens and he writes people to write so he can answer a letter. Should he do so?

William

FIRST do allow me to make the point that it is useless to try to cause it or kindly for us to mention this sort of thing to the friend mentioned. It is true in fact this is obviously a very difficult for some people to talk of this sadness, and that is usual reticence we must, in deep understanding, respect.

If, however, the friend mentions it, we can say some deeply sympathetic words.

2. I wish I knew! I don't believe that there is anything that we can say, if the person does not wish to like to make it easier for us to take our place in the row. The only thing that we can do is to try to take our place with as little inconvenience to the person as possible. Also it is important for us to smother the black looks that we would like to show!

As a matter of fact, the only way to repay people for their kindness is to show an overwhelming appreciation And I have observed that the manifestation of good manners is usually the most thoughtful and most quickest than an unmannerly manner The world is full of it, you know.

NEW ISSUES IN BOND MARKET EXPECTED

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

Important new issues are expected shortly to make their appearance in the stock market, which is being rejuvenated and windowdressed for the coming events. Since the possibilities of well-selected common stocks became evident to the American public as a whole, the bond division has never received its original position.

The "new bond market" is in a more attractive position, as a matter of fact, than the old. It has offerings to appeal to all classes of investors. The bonds with share features, otherwise known as convertible, today offer plenty of appeal for those who seek thrills. The old bond market seldom gave a great deal of action

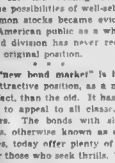
President Howard Coonley of Walworth Co. says:



Howard Coonley

"In the past two years, in terms of tonnage our iron valve sales have increased by 25 per cent and our brass valve sales by 25 per cent. During this same period our cost of production has shown steady decrease, particularly in recently acquired plants.

"In my report of last year I referred to a new product at our Alabama plant, chrome nickel cast iron pipe. Although the demand for this product has not as yet developed to a heavy tonnage at the same time it has shown consistent growth and the experimental installations have been entirely successful. In the meantime, we have been improving our foundry practice and have now developed successful methods of electric welding in the smaller sizes so as to be able to make the pipe in lengths approximating those of steel pipe.

"We have also during the year commenced the successful production of a highly corrosion-resisting pipe which we designate as Nireside. In this enterprise the International Nickel Co. has co-operated."

James J. Phelan, Jr., son of the prominent Boston financier, has just been elected to the directorate of the Will & Baumer Candle Co. Unlike some other Boston financial backers, Mr. Phelan has never gone in strongly for company positions, and our recollection is that about eight directorates would make up his total.

A leading economist says: "Those who have looked beneath the surface expect a good recovery in general trade, beginning the latter part of March, sufficient to offset the reaction that has been in effect since the first week in February. The effect of the government's billion-dollar building program will be to put to work tens of thousands of unemployed workmen to the ranks of the employed. Commodity prices will follow with the better buying demand in the world's markets, and the proximity of the warmer weather will limber up the seasonal movement of spring goods."

National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has a plan to "take 27,000 ancient motor cars off the roads of New England this year." It would cost, according to estimates, not over $35 a car. That sounds high to the writer, who knows where plenty of "ancient cars" can be picked up for $5 to $10 apiece.

One bit of printed comment is to the effect that these cars are a menace to road safety. We don't believe that is the N. A. C. C. contention. It was suggested in this column many months ago that the states should refuse to grant registration to automobiles unfit to go on the highways.

The suggestion that the junked cars be destroyed does not sound as if it should be carried out. If parts of cars are needed for replacement use, why destroy them? Automobiles are not all wealthy, and the "auto graveyards" exist on the Bay State, are well patronized by those seeking to save a dollar or two once in a while.

• • •

In terms of bank failures, the nation's banking system of Canada shows better results than the unit system of the United states. Canada has had only one Currency Pole told the House banking and currency committee. The committee is investigating the branch banking situation. As the last savings bank failure in Massachusetts occurred in 1914, and the Civil War days, the Pole comparison somehow doesn't appear to fit in the Bay State picture. Boston bank stocks, by the way, are being very well bought.

Many Buildings Being Planned: Go Ahead Now!

Do Employes Like Shares Listed? New Move by General Motors

By B. C. FORBES

B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, March 13—Encouraging: Buildings planned so far this year are almost double 1388 per cent) what they were a year ago, announces the Associated General Contractors of America. Also, "Engineering contract awards for this year up to February 7, were 60 per cent over last year."

Let every proposed piece of construction be started at once that is possible moment. Both men and material are now abundantly available at a cost little likely to be lowered after general activity gets into swing.

A New York bank consolidation is under consideration. I'm told, which would cause nation-wide astonishment were it to go through. It would play a part in the rivalry first place among America's biggest banks.

Nothing new has thus far developed in the Chase National-Equitable Trust merger negotiations. Prospects for action are still called bright.

The management of a very old Philadelphia corporation wants to know, "What is the effect on employe-stockholders when a company lists its stock on the stock exchange?"

Some of the directors fear that having the stock quoted daily would tend to turn employes into speculators and thus take their minds off their work, with unhappy consequences.

I don't believe anything of the kind would happen. Employe stockowners are no different from the rest of us in that we all like to see our holdings quoted in the newspapers. Only this week a well-to-do woman, talking about her securities, remarked to me, "I am going to sell—because I hardly ever see it quoted."

In my humble opinion, employes like to see the name of their concern in print; they like to think that it attracts public attention. Also, all of us like to know just what we own is worth. Then, the advertising value of having a company's stock quoted in the newspapers all over the country cannot be overlooked. Anything and everything which helps to make a business more known to the general public is a better standing and enhances its credit, its ability to raise capital on favorable terms.

Employes given to gambling will gamble whether their stock is listed or unlisted.

So my reply is, "Go ahead and list your stock."

Dr. Schacht, who has resigned from the presidency of the Reichsbank, has been the stormy petrel of German reparations. Stung, it is said, by the presidential bee, he has repeatedly acted as special party and obstreperously at international conferences on reparations. Finally other Nationalists became tired of humoring him. Therefore able though Dr. Schacht is, his kicking over the traces does not promise relief than concern in this country.

General Motors is going to launch another brand-new product. General Manager Arnold of Delco-Light tells me:

"Active production has started in the factory of the Delco-Light Company in Delcogas, newest General Motors product. Delcogas is a self-contained mechanism which converts a liquid distilled from natural gas back into a gas again for use in ranges, water heaters, radiant heaters and similar applicances exactly as gas from public utility mains is used in the city.

"The market will be the small cities and towns now without city gas service, suburban sections where gas mains have not been laid, and the rural territories. The equipment may be installed in any home, regardless of location, and provides exactly the sort of gas used by city dwellers and at the average cost of city artificial gas."

This will interest General Motors 225,000 stockholders—as will any home owners. It marks one more step towards furnishing home owners with city comforts and conveniences.

Also, it reflects the progressiveness and aggressiveness of General Motors executives.

President R. C. Holmes, of the Texas Corp., was quoted the other day as opposing the Federal Oil Conservation Board's recommendation that refineries shut down on Sundays. The fact is that his statement regarding difficulties attending such shutdowns was disappeared before the board's suggestion was made.

The oil industry's response to the six-day proposal has been lukewarm—cold, rather.

Wall Street declares that the stock market is honeycombed with short selling. That is bullish rather than bearish on the market's outlook. It means that a lot of buying will have to be done to "cover." That the trend has been upwards in face of inordinate bear pressure, indicates that the market possesses great inherent strength.

CURB MARKET OILS ATTRACT ATTENTION

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER

New York, March 13 (AP)—The curb market displayed a somewhat improved tone today as liquidation of the utility shares was in smaller volume and oils attracted increasing demand.

Trading was somewhat lighter, as traders were inclined to mark time until the market shows signs of settling into a definite trend.

The petroleum issues were favorably influenced by upholding of the California production control program in the courts and an increase in gasoline prices by Warner Quinlan, possibly indicating an end to price cutting in the east.

Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania rose more than 2 points to a new high for the year, and Humble, Standards of Indiana and Kentucky and Vacuum all moved up a point or more. Cities Service, however was inclined to lag.

The utility shares sagged moderately, but offered better resistance to selling than they did yesterday. Electric Bond and Share, after an early sag, was bid up moderately above yesterday's closing level. Central States Electric and Standard Shareholdings, which have large blocks of North American, were depressed by a decline in that stock on the big board.

Hydro Electric securities encountered profit-taking after the decline of yesterday, and Middle West was under considerable pressure. The United Founders and Corp. issues, with United Founders and U. S. Electric Power selling off fractionally.

Associated Gas, which has held at 45 for several days, finally gave way before selling.

Industrials were irregular. Technicolor sagged, despite reports that it has sold out practically its entire production for the year. Elder Electric and American Chain again eased in realizing.

Pilot Radio sold up a fraction to another 1930 top, reflecting report of net profit of $404,182 last year, an increase from $322,622 in 1928.

E. W. Bliss, which has been quiet of late, kept forward a few points.

The investment trades were quiet and generally steady. Among the financial specialties Marine Midland was under moderate selling pressure, getting down close to 40

BOND MARKET SEES NEW TOP PRICES SET

By JOHN L. COOLEY

New York, March 13 (AP)—The bond market boiled merrily today, generating enough steam to lift many high-grade investment issues to new top prices for the year or considerably longer.

The fuel for the current movement, which got under way a week ago when the Bank of England cut its discount rate, is being provided, of course, by the extreme cheapness of money. Further evidence of easiness came today in another cut in bankers' acceptances, the fourth in a week.

NEW CUT NEAR

There was also a general expectation that the New York Federal Reserve Bank would reduce its rediscount rate in the very near future—perhaps today.

One of the day's interesting developments was the readiness with which the Pennsylvania Railroad's $60,000,000 issue of debenture 4½ per cent debentures was taken at the offering price of 94½, an oversubscription of considerable proportions was reported before the market opened at 10 o'clock.

It was probably the best reception accorded a new issue since the $150,000,000 American Telephone & Telegraph convertible 4½s of two weeks ago. Incidentally, the Pennsylvania's flotation was the year's largest piece of nonconvertible bond financing by a railroad.

The strongest of the prime rails during the earlier trading was the Atchison General 4s, one of the market's pivotal bonds, which crossed 95 to a new high on the most substantial support in months. Other favorites in the investment rail groups were Louisville & Nashville 4s, St. Louis-San Francisco prior lien 4s, Union Pacific First 4s, Pennsylvania 4s of 1948 and Wabash 5s, up from ¼ to more than a point.

NEW HIGHS SET

Missouri Pacific General 4s and Erie general 4s were also strong. Among the higher priced issues, Great Northern 7s rallied nearly a point.

American Telephone 5s of 1965 quickly went to the new high of 103¾. United Fruit 4½s were leveraged about a half higher, and most of the other high grade utilities easily made higher quotations.

Industrials were dull, some interest was taken in foreign sugar and cement company obligations in view of the Senate's reaffirmation of its recent vote on the tariff schedules in those commodities. Convertibles were rather heavy on small dealings.

Another sprinkling of new highs appeared in the United States Governments in a fairly broad market. Foreign bonds, especially Germans, loans, again manifested upward tendencies.

CONSTRUCTIVE PLANS LAID

Chicago, March 13 — The first annual report of the Borg-Warner Corporation and its subsidiaries, covering the year ended December 31, 1929, shows net income equivalent to $6.03 a share on the common stock, a current position of better than three to one and cash and liquid securities amounting to almost twice the total current liabilities at the end of the year.

Net income for the period amounted to $7,882,890, which, after providing for preferred stock dividends and the minority stockholders' interests, equals $6.03 a share on the 1,230,355 shares of common stock.

Current assets at December 31, 1929, totaled $19,221,823, including $8,401,096 of cash or marketable securities, as compared with current liabilities of $4,381,736. The balance sheet shows reductions in funded debt and preferred stock of subsidiaries outstanding.

"Borg-Warner operations during 1929 have not only been currently successful, but certain constructive measures for the future have been put into effect," C. S. Davis, president of the corporation, says in his remarks to the stockholders accompanying the annual statement. "Much more will be done in this respect during the year 1930.

"Whatever general business conditions may develop during the current year, we feel that the Borg-Warner Corporation is in relatively stronger sales position than at any previous period, and will obtain a greater percentage of the total volume of business available in its various fields than it has heretofore enjoyed."

Weston Electrical Earnings Increase

In 1929 Weston earned $5.49 a share on 53,900 no-par Class A participating shares and $4.49 a share on 150,000 no-par common shares, against $3.41 on 75,000 Class A shares and $2.41 a share on 150,000 common shares in 1928.

National Sugar

National Sugar Refining Co. reports for 1929 net profit of $2,934,744 after depreciation, interest and taxes, equal to $4.82 a share on 600,000 no-par shares, against $3,372,886, or $5.62 a share, in 1928.

Encaustic Tiling

American Encaustic Tiling earned $3.06 a share on 227,670 no-par common shares in 1929, against $7.52 on 113,835 common shares in 1928.

MAWSON PARTY HUNGRY FOR VEGETABLES

By SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON
Commander of the British, Australian and New Zealand Antarctic Research Expedition.

(Copyright, 1930, on the North American continent by the New York American, Inc. World copyright reserved by Sir Douglas Mawson.)

Radio via London

S. S. Discovery, March 11 (Delayed)—All is well aboard the Discovery, now that we are ending our research in Antarctica for the present and are definitely turned toward civilization.

Among other pleasures-to-be, all hands are looking forward to the approaching prospect of fresh vegetables. The stock of fresh potatoes, and onions, which kept so well for a long time notwithstanding the adverse climatic conditions, gave out long ago.

NO SICKNESS

Attesting to the excellence of our preserved foods and stores, however, is the fact that though some of us have increased in size, no single man has lost weight during the expedition, nor has there been any sickness.

Wireless communication with Australia, whither we are heading, is now excellent, and has not been affected during a single night this evening when the luminescent auroral phenomena was visible in the Southern skies.

The discovery is on a course direct from our Kerguelen Island base to the southwest corner of Australia, and tonight we are 3100 miles distant from the "Land of Down Under."

Shorter leaving Kerguelen, the gales abated, and since then much of the weather has been favorably for conducting our marine program, which is proceeding satisfactorily.

DIVIDING RIDGE

As already reported several months ago, we found a striking submarine ridge connecting Kerguelen plateau with the Antarctic Continent, thus dividing the two compartments the deeper waters of the southern ocean South of the Indian Ocean.

The hydrological work done during the cruise south from Kerguelen generally amplified our knowledge of the most western of these basins, and supplies information as to the flows of the waters passing between them.

The object of our present operations is the establishing a series of "stations" between Kerguelen and Cape Leeuwin—is to define the character and movements of the waters entering the Eastern, or Australian, Antarctic Basin along this front.

This work, which is obviously important in the investigation of the Australian Antarctic Basin, is progressing satisfactorily.

REFRIGERATOR SALES BOOM

A forecast that 1930 will be a big year for business men was made by officials of the General Electric Corporation at the annual regional convention dinner at the College Plaza, which was attended by more than 800 General Electric refrigerator dealers.

M. F. Mahoney of the General Electric Company of Cleveland told the meeting that January sales were 50 per cent ahead of the figures for 1929.

The convention was held under the joint auspices of the Coughlin Electric Company of Worcester, the Eastern Service Refrigeration Company of Lowell, the Electric Refrigerator Company of New England, of Boston, and the Gould Farmer Company of Portland.

KEY RINGS FOR MET PATRONS

Through a special arrangement with the Metropolitan Theater, the first 250 women who enter the Tremont st. theater each day during the week beginning today, will be given a Boston Evening American registered key chain.

These chains are being presented as a feature of the personal appearance of Martha Lee at the Metropolitan. Each bears a number which is registered by the Boston Evening American so that if lost they may be returned to the newspaper and by the newspaper to the owner.

Martha Lee is appearing in person on the Metropolitan stage at 11:25 daily in conjunction with the showing of a delightful dramatic comedy entitled "The Way to a Man's Heart."

CLASSES VISIT FOOD PLANT

Seventy-five girls in the home economics classes of Manchester, N. H., High School, followed their course of studies into the plant of the First National Stores, Inc., in Middlesex, Somerville, where they saw the methods of preparing, producing and shipping a large number of commodities they use.

The girls were accompanied by Mrs. Robert Morrill, and the Misses Anna Peterson and Louise Burpee, teachers in the school.

H. H. Gridley, superintendent of the New Hampshire and Vermont division of the First National Stores, directed the visitors through the plant.

Luncheon was served to the young women in the company's cafeteria and for two hours thereafter the young home economists inspected the various departments.

Would Limit Autos to Single Trailer

An amendment of the law to prohibit the drawing of more than one trailer by a motor vehicle was advocated by Registrar John Noble of Motor Vehicles George A. Parker at a legislative hearing today at the State House.

Because of the non appearance of speakers on a bill filed by former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald for the appointment of a special commission to investigate street and traffic conditions in the counties of Worcester, Middlesex, Essex, Norfolk and Suffolk, the measure went by default.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING
CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

Let People Who Fight the Wars Say When We Shall Declare War!

WARS are not fought by the statesmen and diplomats who bring them on, nor by the international bankers and other representatives of privileged interests who control the statesmen and the diplomats.

Wars are fought by the people.

Therefore, in the opinion of the Hearst newspapers, the people should have something to say about the wars they fight.

The Hearst newspapers believe that the time has come for a constitutional amendment taking it out of the power of anyone but the people to declare and wage an offensive war, or to form an entangling alliance with any foreign power or group of powers.

This country in 1917-18 had its fill of fighting for OTHER nations. It cost us forty thousand million dollars of money and 100,000 American lives. That was the price America paid for making the world safe for British and French imperialism. The average man thought that was enough to hold us for a good long time.

Now the people witness the spectacle of a part, if not a majority, of the American delegation at the London Naval Conference trying to pledge us to take part in all future European wars.

They favor signing a "consultation pact" with England, Japan, France and Italy—a treaty obligating us when any of them is threatened with war to gather with them about the conference table and see what we shall all do about it. The excuse is that such a "pact" will enable them all to reduce their navies. Then we won't have to build ships and everyone will save money.

It does not take much intelligence to recognize this as an aggravated form of the League of Nations: a treaty by which we join the four great military and naval powers in fighting their wars and imposing our wills on the world.

This "pact," attached to a naval limitation treaty, may be brought home for the Senate to ratify. Then we shall see unloosed a stupendous tide of propaganda, financed by foreign nations, international bankers and soft-headed pacifists, and aided by all the resources of our foreign-minded metropolitan press, urging acceptance of the treaty.

Such propaganda nearly swept the Senate into agreeing to enter the League of Nations in 1919-20, though the people, when they got a chance to speak, repudiated the League by 7,000,000 votes in 1920 and 7,000,000 again in 1924. If the Senate had not by a narrow margin balked just at the last minute the people would never have had an opportunity to vote on the matter. We should be in the League of Nations today.

We also make the statement that if the people, instead of the Senate, had voted on the proposition of sending our soldiers and sailors over to fight in the European war the popular vote would have been three to one against the war.

The Hearst newspapers advocate an amendment to the Constitution making it impossible for the Government, except after a referendum vote of the people—

1—To declare or wage any war except in defense of the territories and possessions of the United States, and

2—To form any alliance or agreement with any foreign nation or group of nations obligating the United States to participate in or confer on wars not having to do with the defense of the territories or possessions of the United States.

For the sake of the diplomats, statesmen, international bankers and others who WANT such wars the amendment might authorize and encourage the deportation, at Government expense, of such so-called Americans as want to participate in foreign wars of other nations.

Bishop Slattery

THE death of the Rt. Rev. Charles Louis Slattery, D. D., Protestant Episcopal Bishop of Massachusetts, has removed a great and useful citizen.

Preacher of charm and eloquence, writer of unusual gifts, administrator of marked ability, Bishop Slattery was the admired and beloved leader of his people. Friends within and without the Episcopal fold will long remember him as a Christian gentleman of noble soul and kindly and charitable heart.

Massachusetts is the poorer for his passing.

Fame

Which Citizens of Massachusetts Are Best Known to the People of Remote Parts?

DETERMINED that all who come to the National Convention of the American Legion next October shall see the places and meet the persons in whom they are most keenly interested, officers of the Massachusetts Department are broadcasting a questionnaire which they hope will develop the facts.

The examination papers are on their way to Legion adjutants in the various States, who will see to their distribution. These are some of the questions:

1—What will be your biggest interest in coming to the national convention in Boston's Tercentenary Year?

2—What historical place of interest are you most anxious to see?

3—What place of interest, other than historical, are you most anxious to see?

4—What Massachusetts industry are you most anxious to see in actual operation?

5—What article, especially noted in or peculiar to Massachusetts, are you most anxious to take home as a souvenir?

6—What person in public life in Massachusetts are you most anxious to see and meet?

7—What person in public life in Massachusetts are you most anxious to have address you?

8—What article of food, particularly associated with Massachusetts, are you most anxious to sample in its home-cooked state?

If you were a veteran, living in South Dakota, let us say, or Montana, how would YOU answer Questions No. 6 and No. 7? All you could know of Massachusetts people, no doubt, would be what you had read about them in the public prints.

Our guess is that the name of Calvin Coolidge will head the list, which will include the names of Mrs. Coolidge, General Edwards, A. Lawrence Lowell, Cardinal O'Connell, Alvan T. Fuller, Ben Ames Williams, Professor Rogers of M. I. T., Congressman Granfield, "Jack" Sharkey and "Bossy" Gillis. How many others?

The quiz gives us a glimpse at the infinite amount of detail that goes with making a successful convention. The officers of the Legion are leaving nothing to chance or luck. They have begun in a big way the doing of a big job.

The 'Good' Old Days

Maybe

MR. FRED A. BAKER of Brockton, who hired out to the conductor of a construction train in 1870—conductors hired their brakemen in those days—recalls in his 75th year a time when the trainman had wood stoves to look after, lamps to clean and keep filled and was expected to haul the baggage from baggage-car to baggage-room.

A generation which is making the acquaintance of the "individual seat" passenger car, with which the New Haven only recently equipped its Bay State Express, will find it difficult to "get" the picture.

In 1873-74, Mr. Baker was brakeman and baggageman on a train which came from Middleboro to Boston at 8:10 each morning, pulled out of Boston for Middleboro at 11, returned to Boston and at 7:40 p. m. was back at Middleboro, for the night.

His day began at 5:30. It ended at about 8 p. m.

Brakemen were paid $1.75 a day, baggagemen $1.85.

Does that seem a pittance? Oh, but as late as the Middle Eighties the bachelor who was "making his two-and-a-half a day" was regarded as a "catch." Many of them, duly "caught," were able to build one-family houses out of their pay envelopes.

There were telephones in SOME stores, in the Middle Eighties, electric lights in few residences. Radio and motion pictures were yet to come. The horse car had not given way before the "flying" trolley. Excellent beer was five cents the glass. The minstrels always gave a street parade. Horse-drawn hacks were lined up before the depot.

Who cares? ONLY a few of us, who miss the minstrels and the hack boss' hair and are afraid to cross the streets.

Stoves and oil lamps in passenger cars! Who will believe it, that travels to and from New York on the Bay State, with its individual seats, screened ventilators, electric fans, ceiling lights, weather strips and thermostatic control of heat?

Times change and methods of transportation with them. ONE of these days—along about 1980, say—these de luxe trains of the New Haven will be as obsolete as the stage coach.

H. G. Wells Writes on 'Science of Life'

In Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and G. P. Wells

NOT until a century or so ago it was commonly believed that the world as we know it today had begun suddenly. It had been created, with man and all the species of beings, we know them today. Great numbers of people, including most educated people, held to the view with great tenacity.

They had adjusted their moral and religious ideas to that view, and they did not realize that these ideas were not inseparably dependent upon it. All of us are prone to resist changes in our fundamental ideas.

H. G. Wells

We feel instinctively that it may mean a disturbance of our way of living and the abandonment and change of objectives; it is a threat to our peace of mind and our satisfaction with our lives. The idea of the earth's going round the sun was considered to be just as impious in its time of novelty as was the idea of evolution by the Fundamentalist of the backward states today.

Then steadily and more and more abundantly came evidence to show that the existing forms of life were not all the forms of life, and that there had been a great variety of animals and plants which had passed away, a greater variety and multitude indeed than that which still exists.

The science of geology became a new region of intellectual activity, and in the study of the earth's crust and traces of a past infinitely longer than men had hitherto suspected were unfolded. Varied and wonderful as was the present spectacle of life, the series of faunas and floras that had preceded it and passed away was found to be more wonderful.

Life had a past, a stupendous past. So far from it being a thing of yesterday, the creation of a few thousand years ago, it had a history of enormous variety and infinite fascination.

We can still imagine something of the excitement of our grandfathers when the fantastic and marvelous dinosaurs, the vegetation of the coal measures, the flying dragons of the Mesozoic period were revealed to them. Continually now that once incredible catalogue is expanded.

Every year the palaeontologist, the seeker and student of fossils, adds fresh details to this history of living forms.

Faced with these marvels the Creationist at first denied and then, no longer able to deny, declared that these extinct forms of life had been created in the past, tried out for some unknown end, to be extinguished in favor of fresh creations.

They were but the prelude of these later creations. They had no clear rational relation to living things and living things had no clear rational relationship to them.

But a bolder school of interpretation appeared. These ancient forms were not so strange and incredible as they seemed. Life had produced them on its way to its present state.

Generation by generation it had changed from the wonder it was to the wonder it is. There had been no Creation since the beginning of life.

Life had unfolded—or, to initiate unfold, it had been "evolved"—from some remote and very simple beginning.

What weighed with the Evolutionist in his denial of successive creations was this, that the abounding and continually accumulating record of past forms of life is not a disorderly multitude, not a confusion of inexplicable "wonders," but that it falls into shape, it has a plan, and every fresh discovery drops into place in that plan.

All of these forms fall into the scheme of a common tree of descent. That is the plan of it. If there was no other evidences to sustain it, we should still have to believe that Evolution has occurred on the strength of the plan of the fossil record alone.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. M'INTYRE

NEW YORK, March 13—Shoplifters cost New York merchants, big and small, another huge fortune this winter. Such pilfering flourishes in cold weather when heavy wraps are worn. The woman wearing a cape is always trailed by a department store detective. A fourth offender recently got a life sentence.

On rainy days the umbrella shoplifters reap a harvest. They are adroit in sliding pillage off counters and into closed umbrellas. The male shoplifter is rare, but there are hundreds of women who have made it a profitable means of livelihood.

The master workers are usually young and their success depends largely on being well dressed. Catching a shoplifter is a task that requires judgment and unerring accuracy.

Every city has its quota of women from respectable families who are touched by a kleptomania that is expressed in shoplifting. Most of them have been pitied and are permitted to indulge in the thieving as though no wise suspected. Relatives pay the bills.

SHOPLIFTERS are never arrested in stores. The procedure is to follow them until they reach the street and then place them under arrest. This averts excited hysteria resulting from accusations and prevents the excuse they were merely carrying the stolen article to a floorwalker to be priced.

The most famous of the shoplifters was known as Flash Kate. Until she died several years ago she operated in large cities between San Francisco and New York. She was Junoesque, blonde and wore a sable-tipped coat with ingenious secret pockets.

When finally caught she was said to be worth more than a half-million in securities, the profit of her loot. Innumerable experts work with passers. The "passer" is a confederate to whom the stolen articles are passed and who is quick in vanishing in the crowds.

A MOST unusual case of shoplifting graced the first pages last Christmas time. A woman of social prominence was tapped on the shoulder as she was entering her limousine in front of an avenue store. She was told she was wanted in the manager's office. In her hand bag was an expensive jade clock which she had purloined. She admitted the theft and pleaded she was overcome by an uncontrollable impulse. So far as could be learned it was her first, last and only offense. Her husband settled and the case was dropped.

A toy store announces a New York millionaire spent $18,000 in the establishment in a year for amusement jim-cracks for his three boys, aged 4, 6 and 8. And I'd like to announce it gives me a shooting pain.

A doctor, whose practice has been among the rich for years, tells me gout is vanishing in moneyed circles. In other days retired and venerable men sat inhaling with a foot propped upon a stool rest day after day. The malady was considered rather fashionable. More careful diets and abstinence in drinking are credited for the abatement.

IT is the physician's theory the custom of following a highly seasoned dinner with a rich red goblet of rare old port was responsible for much gout. He found that every gout patient was fond of port.

Listen, World!

THE NEW BUILDING.

I AM sitting in a room on the 29th floor of a Broadway hotel. Below my window New York spreads out to the Hudson river. Most of the buildings are fairly low, six or seven stories. From this height the city is a jumbled mosaic of dingy red, brown, yellow, gray and black. There are gullies through the mosaic with dark cleis and specks that are people. Soot crusts the mosaic.

Elsie Robinson

smoke and fog hang above it and from it there rises, night and day, a mumbling and yowling, a roar and clatter.

It is a great sight for an artist. But it is not a very great sight for an historian. From this height life doesn't seem to have come very far. You wonder why human beings, New Yorkers particularly, think they have so much on wood ticks and gophers.

BUT, some twelve blocks to the west, something looms abruptly above the dark rubble of roofs. An enormous building, covering at least a square block in area—40 stories up now and still unfinished. But even as it stands, it is incredibly beautiful. The squawl and scum of the city splatter in a dark foam at its base. The mean little roofs lie littered about. But the great, new building rises up and up, above the noise and the darkness—

It rises up and up into the wide, free air and the sunlight catches it and turns its vast, set-back cliffs into slabs of gold and ivory and pearl. Lower down, far above the city, it seems dissolved in air—molded in sunlight. It is like a dream, a splendid, shining dream, hung high above the darkness—

BUT it isn't a dream. There are moving spots on top of the building, working in the webs of cranes. Those spots are men. Those spots, down there in the dark gullies, are men, too. And here's the amazing thing. They're the same kind of men! The men that designed those streets designed this building.

The men that wanted to live in streets like that now want to live in buildings like this. All the time, while they were living like that, they had a wish like this inside them. Ever since they started, back in caves, hunting and killing each other, stealing from each other, torturing each other, men have had a wish like this inside them. And now, at last, they're getting around to it—

Dark streets, cruel streets, with men scuttling like rats through the darkness and filth—

BUT above the dark streets, a great, new building rising like a dream—rising, shining and splendid into the wide, free air, where men at last can see the glory of the dawn and hear the call of the sun—

And it isn't taking a new breed of men to do it. Just the same old breed . . . common as you or me.

Dark little men, but with somewhere in them a spark! You can believe anything, hope for anything, when you remember that!
